Trucker Honors Miss Rountree: Teacher, Friend

Dedicated to the purpose of conveying a clear understanding of mathematics to her students, and taking a definite personal interest in the complete student body and individual students of Churchland High School, Miss Elizabeth Rountree has shown a sincere effort to fulfill the ideals of the teaching profession. In her capacity as an instructor of algebra, advanced algebra and trigonometry, and advanced math, she has presented the challenge of learning to her students and worked along with them in their efforts to comprehend the science of mathematics. Outside of the classroom she has given guidance and inspiration to the members of Webb Tri-Hi-Y and the Class of '67, both of which have her as their advisor. In addition to her formal responsibilities, however, Miss Rountree's personal interest in her students has encouraged many of them to persist in the struggle for an understanding of mathematics, or perhaps to persevere in striving for a goal in education. For these reasons and the gratitude that we as seniors feel toward her, we, the Class of 1965, dedicate the 1965 Trucker to Miss Elizabeth Rountree.

Daily Challenges Encourage Continual Achievement

As the central agency in developing students' mental and social abilities, schools assume the role of presenting a variety of learning experiences to those entrusted to their care in the classroom and in extra-curricular activities. In trying to carry out this purpose, all educational institutions must present sufficient challenges which point the way to at least a minimum of achievement. These challenges are presented to students in a multipicity of ways: in athletic contests, a student can see the proof of his achievement when points are scored leading toward a win for his team; in organizational work, members gain satisfaction from the challenge of carrying out their service projects; in academic prowess, challenges constantly spur students to delve into the never-ending world of facts that have evolved through the ages and to search for undiscovered truths; by social contacts, students are given many opportunities to achieve through observing, emulating, and helping to change the world about them; through participation in activities that bestow some tangible reward for visible achievement, students are made aware of the results of years of practice and hard work toward a long-desired goal.

The challenges thus presented result in achievement that is both temporal and permanent. This achievement further results in a changed individual who can take some degree of pride in that which has been acquired; this encourages new challenges which in turn will foster increased achievement and learning experiences. This circle of learning occurs again and again during one's lifetime, and, as such, each person learns and grows mentally, socially, and emotionally. The entire staff of The 1965 Trucker is endeavoring to record the challenges and achievements as they are seen by and in its 1150 students. Thus, the school at large, as well as the general public, can grasp an adequate picture of those areas of school life that tend to develop young people through many challenges leading to eventual achievement.

DISTRIBUTING CLASS RINGS ON THE first day of school Jimmy Hawks and Barbara Johnson hand out these symbols of prestige to their fellow classmates.

TO FACILITATE THE BUYING OF BOOKS this year, Mr. Davis was stationed in the main lobby to make change for students who bought books through their classes.

First Day Representative Of Challenges To Come

Churchland High School began the school year on September 3. To some, the excitement and confusion of that first day was new; to others, it merely repeated itself; but to all it represented the many challenges that would face them in 1964-65. However, the first day was not only one of challenges. Seniors picked up their class rings, symbols of three years of past achievement and of a year's achievemen to come.

During the first few days students made new acquaintances and renewed old ones. In buying books and paying fees, students for the first time were not allowed to use checks as payment; they had to exchange them for cash in the main lobby.

Academics found their place in student life almost immediately. They soon demanded large amounts of time for reports, laboratory experiments, and homework.

Student life was broadened by Friday night football games. SCA members posed the problem of a sagging school spirit and sought its solution in the first assembly. The student body promptly answered by voicing support for the team at the first pep rally.

As each student completed this first month, he recognized that school life is marked by constant challenges, each presenting opportunities for achievement.

AS PART OF THEIR LEARNING IN BIOLOGY, students throughout the year probed the unknown by using microscopes. Kaye Keith records her observations in an after-school lab session.

HAVING COMPLETED AN OPERATION ON the Student Body for a case of indifference, the medical staff of Trucker General Hospital discusses how to prevent a re-occurrrence of this disease. At the year's first assembly, SCA members Joe Braintwain, Barbara Johnson, Patty Hoffler, Lindy Rowland, and Bill Spain humorously dramatized this ill of CHS.

ENTHUSIASM FOR the pep rally in October was generated by the cheerleaders' dressing as football players. Jody Swanson and Cathy Wittig exert a last bit of effort before jumping high to complete a game-boosting yell.

ORIGINALITY WAS THE PRINCIPAL ATTRIBUTE of the Trucker Hi-Y homecoming float this year as the Snuffy Smith gang expressed a homespun welcome to the Classes of '40 and '55. Larry Atwood (Snuffy Smith), Buddy Yost (Jughaid), and Alan Mandell (Aunt Loweezy) accompany the float after it has been reviewed by the judges.

Homecoming And Mock Election Highlight Late Fall

WITH HOMECOMING COMES THE EXCITEMENT OF crowning the queen. Bonnie Broughton, a prospective candidate, is pinned by Billy Murden a week before Homecoming parade and game.

Homecoming highlighted the months of October and November as an overflow crowd at Churchland Stadium witnessed the results of weeks of effort and preparation. Contestants for Homecoming Queen had been previously nominated by the football team and pinned during school, and every club at CHS had responded to the challenge of making a float which would attracively represent a famous cartoon character.

The presidential election gave government students a chance to learn about national events by simulating them. A vigorous campaign was waged by constituents of both parties. A debate on national issues was held on October 29, and the campaign ended when the student body voted on the next day.

Several talented Churchland students entertained the freshman and sophomores at their first November assembly. A hootenanny mood was set by various popular folk songs and ballads.

Both individual and team achievement were evident in the last weeks of November. The new CHS Marshals were chosen for their academic ability, character, and personality; and the football team ended its second 7-3 season in a row with a narrow victory over cross-town rival, Cradock.

DURING THE MOCK ELECTION JERRY DARDEN and Sandra Goodloe register Churchland students at the voting booths in the main lobby.

DANNY DARDEN ADDS A PERSONAL TOUCH to the Freshman-Sophomore Hootenanny with his version of the popular folk tune "What Have They Done to the Rain?"

Holiday Season Brings Performers' Achievement

STUDENT STAGE MANAGERS, JIMMY SAUERBIER and Mike Slezak, go over their light and curtain cues during a change of choral groups at the annual Choral Christmas Concert.

With December came two choral assemblies and College Boards. The choral department entertained the freshman and sophomores on the third of the month and the juniors and seniors on the tenth. For some 140 students the Churchland cafeteria became an all-day center for the Admissions Testing Program on December 5.

The Welfare Drive, which began in early December, offered the first hint of the approaching Christmas season. Welfare representatives from each homeroom collected food and money in order to help extend the season's joy to some needy families.

The holiday spirit was personified through and accomplished by a spirit of competition and challenge. Most of the homerooms tried to construct a door display which best conveyed the true spirit of Christmas to passers-by.

During the week before the closing of school, student stage and recording technicians and the CHS Marshals added their services to the skills of the choral groups and the CHS Band in making both of their concerts successes. The only reward for weeks of persistent practice was the intangible achievement which a performer feels when his audience applauds him and thus lets him know that his efforts are not in vain.

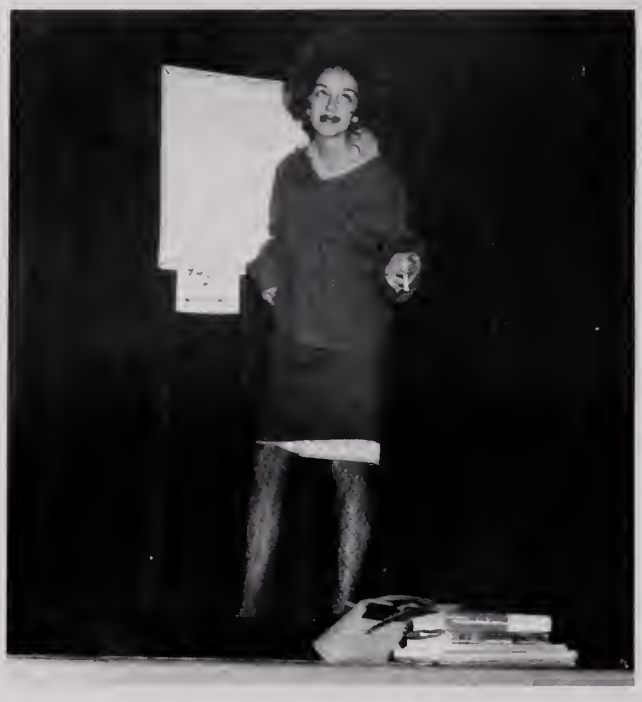
RUSHING TO MEET the deadline for the Christmas door decoration contest, Jenny Creekmore and Rita Cox cut out the background design for the door of Mrs. Davis, who lends moral support for this annual affair.

AT THEIR CHRISTmas Concert, band soloists Craig Smith, David Snyder, and Syd Carroll employ cup mutes in order to enhance the effect of a "blues" section in "Trumpets Wild."

ACTING AS ONE OF THE CHS MARSHAL hostesses for the Christmas band concert, Nancy Brinkley takes a ticket from a patron as part of her evening's duties.

AS DAVID SNYDER LOOKS ON, KENNY LEBOW AND Richard Cloe make the final adjustment on the recording equipment before the choral concert in December.

Mid-winter Activities Add To Lively Pace At CHS



"GLADYS GROSS," CHARACTERIZED BY Ann Hagert, "lights up" in the girls' basement between classes. This scene is from the Pierette Club skit on school etiquette.

CHS students had just enough time to return from Christmas vacation and to settle down in the routine of daily school life when mid-term exams provided another break. As the days of January and the first semester became memories, the second semester brought new challenges and achivements.

Signs of early anticipation rose among some seniors as February brought the first activities leading up to graduation. Senior room representatives measured the members of their homerooms for caps and gowns and took orders for calling cards and announcements.

Members of the Senior Class play cast performed the prologue of their production for juniors and seniors at an assembly. It served as an inducement for the student body to see the play which was held on February 4 and 6 amid an air of King Arthur's England.

Later in February a second junior-senior assembly was held. The Pierette Club put on a skit in which they satirized the school eitquette of some members of the student body. During the same asembly a victory flag was presented to Churchland by the members of the SCA. With this, the school thus had an additional instrument through which individual and team achievement could be recognized.

ON BEHALF OF THE student body, Mr. Beck accepts CH's first victory flag from Joe Braintwain and Bill Spain at a February assembly. The flag, to be flown for all sports and scholastic victories and achievements, was presented to the school by the SCA.

THE THRILL OF "senior prestige" and the anticipation of graduation was heightened with the measuring for caps and gowns in homerooms early in the year. Jenneth Marshall and Linda Jean wait their turn while Marty Martin measures Carolyn Kyte for her head size.

HAVING JUST EXAMINED THE DUSTY table in King Arthur's court, Morgan LeFay, played by Marilyn Lorance, comments sarcastically on the housekeeping abilities of Queen Guenever, played by Sandy Thomas. Merlin the Magician, portrayed by Carl Barrett looks on in seeming approval of Morgan's statements, which give an idea of her thoughts and intentions.

JIMMY FINNEGAN, Ken Lewis, Sumner Bell, and Andy Copley play and sing "Love Potion No. 9" during a Junior-Senior assembly. The Excels were one of two bands which performed.

"Pop Music" Bands Add New Twist To Assembly

On the last Thursday of February the juniors and seniors were entertained by the same hootenanny which was given for the underclassmen in November. Two rock and roll bands added a new twist to the program.

The Annual District Future Homemakers Convention was held at Churchland on March 3. An assembly which was held in the auditorium was followed by a banquet.

Seniors who maintained a "B" average throughout high school had their pictures taken as Honor Graduates. With these and several other group pictures in March, work on the '65 Trucker came to an end.

Many teachers required second semester term papers, and the school and public libraries were visited often by Churchland students. Throughout the year many students found the use of one of these libraries as a valuable aid in their work.

The Thespian Club presented its one act play to the freshmen and sophomores in a mid-March assembly. This month was also highlighted by two sets of tests. On the day of the one act play presentation upperclassmen were involved in a National math test, and later many juniors found themselves taking the National Merit Test to measure their individual achievement.

OUTSIDE READING AND RESEARCH AT Portsmouth Public Library consume much of Bill Spain's time as he searches for answers to problems that are presented to him in Humanities class.

"YOU BEGRUDGE EVERY BREATH THAT I DRAW . . . " Lois Lemasters vehemently yells at Carl Barrett during a scene from the competition play "One of Us." As these two toss invectives at each other prior to the murder scene, Sandy Thomas, Diane Griffith, and Wayne Armstrong thoughtfully ponder the conversation taking place while Susannah Davis assumes a role of silence behind the husband-wife conflict.

ARMY REPRESENTATIVE, SGT. GREENE, explains the ROTC program to Matt Williams at the second annual Career Night, while representatives of the Coast Guard and Naval Reserve look on.

Springtime Events Bring Thoughts Of Graduation

On March 10 Churchland High was the host for Career Night. Seniors were thus reminded early that they would soon be preparing for or entering into a profession. Other CHS students, as well as those from Cradock and Wilson, were given a chance to inquire about future job preferences.

Later on in the month of an L.G. Balfour representative used the cafeteria facilities to fit juniors for their class sings to be received in September.

Several seniors staged a mock trial on March 25 for for freshmen and sophomores at their last assembly. They managed to convey an idea of actual courtroom procedure while portraying a humorous murder incident.

Warm weather marked the advent of spring sports. Track, baseball, golf, and tennis all began competition in March and continued through May.

June brought the last days of school and graduation, but it was also a time of deep thought. Many students reflected on their achievement in the closing days of the school year and of the vast challenges lying before them; and to those who thought, came the realization that the never-ending cycle of challenge and achievement was, is, and always will be an important factor in their lives.

ONE OF THE MOST exciting moments of a person's junior year comes with the placement of orders for class rings. Gail Forbes experiences her first feeling of prestige when she is fitted for her senior ring

DURING THE MOCK TRIAL FLIRTATIOUS "Lilly White" (Rowena Rich) answers questions posed by D. A. Boyd Pace, as astonished Judge J. P. Leigh and Clerk Kenny Pritchard glance her way.

SPRING WEATHER OFTEN STIMULATES the longing to escape the confines of school. Bonnie Fischer and Tom Clements find refuge in a few moments of sunshine before the first bell.

WITH WARM WEATHER, STUDENTS ONCE more focus their interests on the spring sports. With shouts of encouragement excited by a sure win, Keith Dresch leads the crowd from his "perch" in cheering Wayne Hitchings on to victory. Wayne finished first in the mile run at this meet with Wilson, bringing CHS closer to its overall victory.

Academics Open Doorway To Student Achievement

There is no phase of school life without a challenge, and one of the greatest challenges a student finds is in the classroom. Actually, the process of learning is the primary reason for attending school, and through it may be found the pleasure and the satisfaction which are unique to the field of education.

There is, of course, no easy road leading to the accomplishment of one's educational goals, but through the classroom may be found the doorway to an unchecked flow of knowledge. This door must be opened by the student and the opportunities made available to him must be taken advantage of on the first knock, if he is to be sufficiently prepared for meeting the many challenges destined to face him. The quest for knowledge requires much hard work, persistence and determination, but to the dedicated student this can be both a fascinating and a rewarding experience.

This year many more doors of opportunity were available to students in both the fixed courses of study and in the expanded ones. The study of French and Spanish was aided by the new language lab, and the extension of College English to a full year made stronger backgrounds in English possible. Increased guidance facilities were available for helping students make decisions, and intramural activities provided more chances for athletic participation among the student body.

In striving to increase his knowledge and academic achievement, each student discovers for himself the true value of an education.

New Schedules Increase Administrators' Problems

Co-ordinating school activities; acting as advisors to teachers, parents, and pupils; supervising instruction; assuring the smooth operation of the school and its activities — these are in general some of the constant tasks that keep the administration of CHS in a state of activity and concern. Mr. Beck, as principal of Churchland's 1150 students, and Mr. Gaskins, as assistant principal, are daily involved in matters about which the student body is seldom aware.

Mr. Beck is primarily concerned with administration and supervision. All things directly and indirectly involved with a school activity come in the scope of his concern. The scheduling of students' classes is a constant problem from February to September of each year. Methods of improving instruction come about as a result of his classroom supervision.

As the one in charge of discipline, Mr. Gaskins sees to it that proper order is maintained for the sound operation of the school. Bus transporation and operation are another area of his concern, as is building operation and management.

Though most of their time is spent in administrative duties, both Mr. Beck and Mr. Gaskins find time to boost the school in its many extra-curricular activities and to make it "the best in all the land."

COMPLETING HIS JUNIOR English assignment, Larry Trimeyer underlines an important passage to prepare for the analyzing and criticizing of the O'Henry short story in class.

The challenge of creative writing was presented to all Churchland English students this year. Emphasis was placed on this type of work to increase the students' skill in writing and in expressing themselves logically and coherently as a preparation for higher education. Grammar, an essential in good composition and conversation, was included in all grade levels, while it was stressed particularly in all sophomore classes. The third ingredient in an English education, reading experience, was contained in the extensive literature program of all classes.

Freshmen and sophomores read such great works as Victor Hugo's Les Miserables, Shakespeare's Julius Caesar and portions of Homer's classic epic poem The Odyssey. Juniors in their study of American literature not only utilized their regular textbooks, but they also studied the universal truths and profound symbolism in Melville's Moby Dick and Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter, found in the book of four American novels. The fostering parent of American writing, English literature, was explored by seniors. Outside reading of Greek tragedies, The Canterbury Tales, and George Bernard Shaw's plays supplemented classwork, such as Ivanhoe and Macbeth.

By offering enriching and challenging courses in literature, grammar, and composition, CHS's English Department has striven to improve the individual's methods of self-expression.

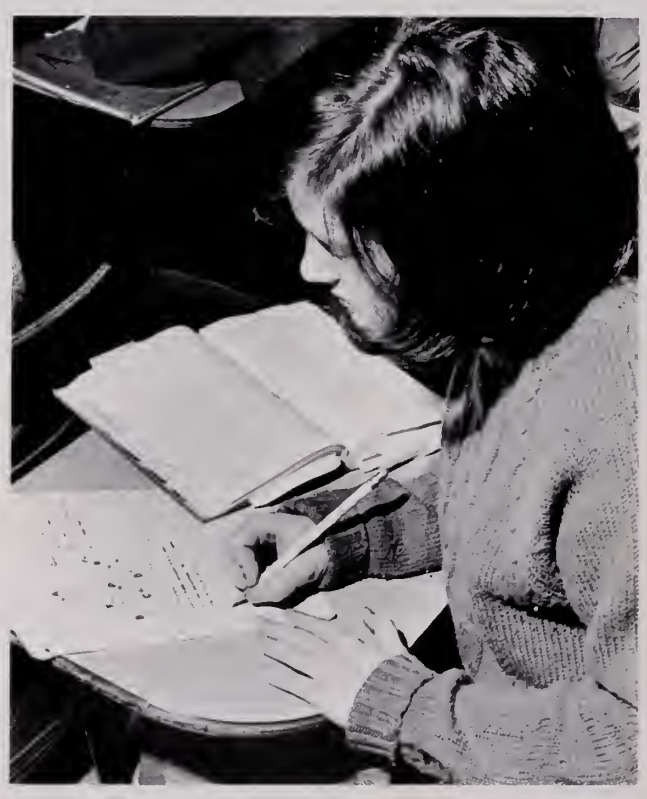
Deductive Concepts Stressed In Math Curriculum



GEOMETRY STUDENTS SPEND A GREAT deal of time proving theorems. Here Linda Pearce is engrossed in her diagram, planning an outline of the statements and reasons for her proof.

Under the guidance of the new math supervisor for Chesapeake Schools, Mr. Herbert Harlow, the Math Department placed increased emphasis on "the new math." Although there is nothing basically new about this math, a new approach was presented. Basic fundamentals were taught to the students much earlier and in a different manner. The general approach to all higher math having been changed, the object of this program is to streamline college preparatory math and to aid all students in a thorough understanding of formerly difficult and preplexing ideas.

Again this year a course in Advanced Math is being offered for those students who have mastered all the other preparatory courses. Designed to give the student a basic understanding of certain topics, the course offers calculus, analytical geometry, logic, and abstract systems, as well as other phases of math concepts and study.

Included in the math curriculum are the standard courses of algebra, geometry and general math in which a student may gain skills useful in higher math and in everyday life.

With increasing emphasis being placed on deductive concepts, the Math Department presents in all of its courses a variety of problems that afford all students the opportunity to think and reason for themselves. Those bound for college will find this "probing" invaluable for higher studies.

Social Studies Link Man's Past With Present

ON CHS ELECTION DAY LINDA SETTLE, a "Johnson girl," and Christy Mays, a "Goldwater girl," distribute campaign buttons to Donna Brantley, Sandra Arrington, and Jimmy Hawks.

"Everyone knows what history is until he begins to think about it." The idea this sentence brings out challenged the minds of many CHS students. They seized a furthered meaning of the record of man's past through thought-provoking discussions during and after class, through debates, and through the giving and listening of oral reports. Throughout the year the history teachers endeavored to create an historical consciousness so that students could get a concept of history as not simply events happening in the past. Also, the department served as an aid in the development of an understanding of the political, economic, and social world.

U.S. History and Government students grasped a deeper understanding of their country's democratic government, society make-up, and heritage of the past. World Geography students gained a knowledge of the interdependence of nations in respect to distribution of resources, of the intense impact of the industrial and democratic revolutions on all sections of the earth, and of each people's unique culture. World history, revealed as a dynamic drama in which every man has a role, disclosed man's successes and failures through the centuries and linked the past, present, and future as being one. The Humanities, with its new teacher, Mr. Bowman, enriched its students by an explanation of man's quest for "the Good, the True, and the Beautiful."

Scientific Unknowns Set Course For Research

MARY SUSAN MORRISON VIEWS AND records a specimen with the microscope, after thorough class discussion on Platyhelminths, the flat worms.

As in preceding years, Churchland had a large number of science students engaged in biology, physics, chemistry, and other ramifications of science. With the many activities carried on by science students, tangible evidence was given of the ever-expanding science department at CHS in such things as yearly projects and daily experiments. The many awards attained by Churchland science students, who entered their projects in state contests, showed not only the interest, achievement, and participation of these "young scientists," but also their desire to further their knowledge of science. It is mainly this part of the science program in which the students are involved.

With the hope that the students will become more cognizant of the scientific world of today, science teachers try to make the student more aware of his environment, to learn the "why" of the physical aspects of life, and to give him a rudimentary explanation of its laws and principles. The laboratory sciences, as well as general science, not only provide the basic fundamentals needed, but also they attempt to furnish the students with ideas so that they may experiment on their own. This encourages the student to think for himself and gives him a glimpse of the immeasurable knowledge to be acquired from the advancing scientific world.

Oral-Aural Plan Brings New Life To Languages

IN HER SPANISH CLASSES, MRS. GREGG increases student interest with animated directions. Here, completely engrossed in explaining some phase of Spanish conversational techniques, she employs typical gestures of true Spanish speech.

The new method of speaking used in modern foreign languages is the "oral-aural" method. By this method the student hears the correct pronunciation of the words and then repeats what he hears. New equipment, consisting of earphones and a teacher's unit, aids the student in conversing and in learning the correct pronunciation of the language.

In the first and second year, French students learn dialogues, and grammar is emphasized in the third year. Fourth and fifth year students study advanced conversations, some of which are original.

Conversation is also emphasized in first year Spanish, followed by a brief introduction to grammar in the second year. Advanced conversation and a deeper study of grammar are contained in the third year. In the combined fourth and fifth year class Spanish magazines and newspapers are read.

Latin places emphasis on a reading program. Along with a study of grammar, the beginners read short selections. Julius Caesar is the topic of second year Latin, while third year students read selections of Sallust's writing, an oration of Cicero, and parts of Ovid's Metamorphoses. Vergil's Aeneid is translated by fourth year scholars. Although a vast difference exists in the methods of teaching the modern and classical language, each course aims to familiarize the students with the languages and cultures of its particular society.

AS "TEACHER FOR THE DAY," GARY GALBREATH holds up the flash card for the Latin word "oppugno," asking for the best meaning from his fellow students in Latin I. Through this means of instruction, students learn vocabulary words in a quick and painless way.

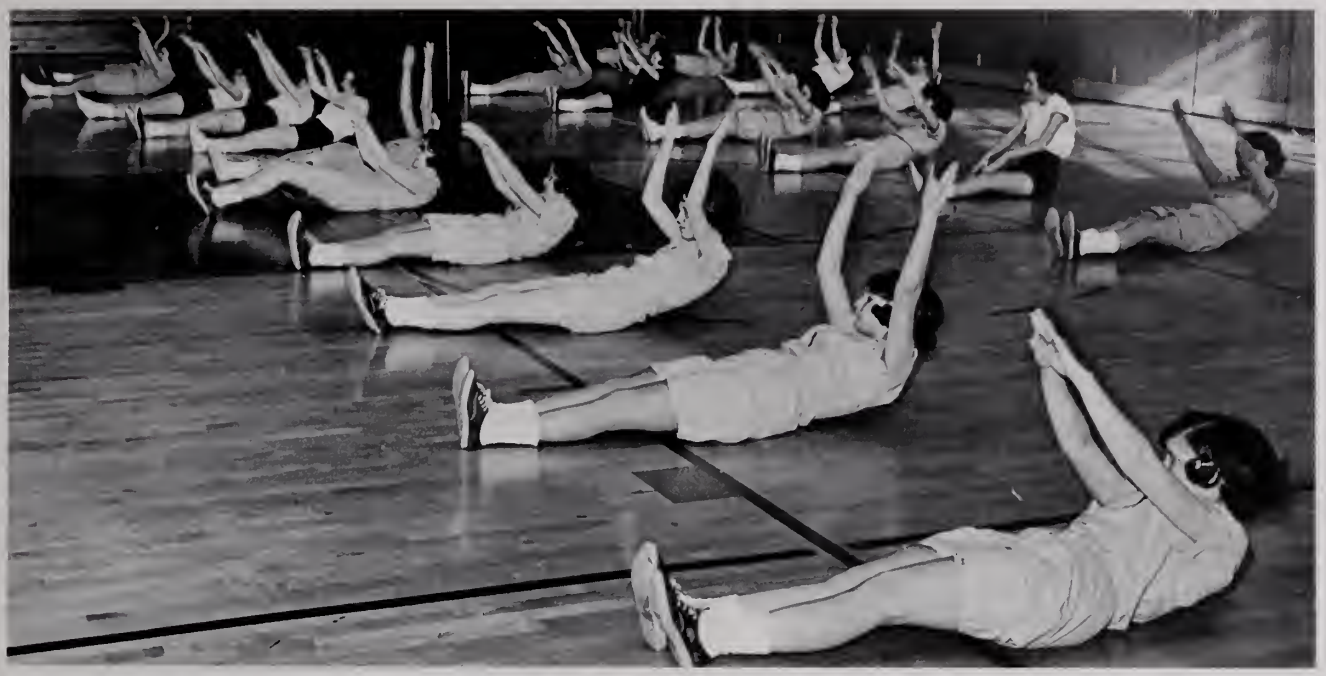
P. E. Classes Study Health, Driving Team Sports

REACHING AND JUMPING HIGH into the air, Barbara Smith and Peggy Wittig put forth all their effort to score another point for their team in their Freshman class volleyball tournament. After acquiring basic skills, girls apply them in competition.

Girls' gym classes at CHS found a new voice this fall calling out their exercises. Mrs. Patterson, newly added to the staff of the Physical Education Department, assisted the girls in gaining basic skills in a variety of sports including field hockey, soccer, volleyball, basketball, tennis, and softball. Also taught was the girls' health class which included instruction in first aid.

The boys' physical education classes participated in a full year of activities, divided into three sections — fall, winter, and spring. The boys played touch football and killer ball in the fall. Winter's indoor slate of activities included gymnastics, wrestling, and basketball. With the coming of spring, softball and track ended the intra-curricular sport program. Two physical checkups and fitness tests were given, one each at the beginning and end of the school year. Academically, Trucker boys were instructed in health, first aid, and driver education.

1964-1965 brought many innovations to the masculine side of the gym classes. Two new football fields were added, using space provided when part of the stadium fence was re-located. The ninth grade classes participated in an inter-class track meet but concentrated mainly on body-conditioning techniques.



ON "ACTIVITY" DAYS THE ROUTINES most familiar to the girls are the taking of exercises. Often a chore, calisthenics aid in physical fitness. These girls are doing sit-ups to Mrs. Patterson's count.

NANCY BRINKLEY, CINDY WILLIAMS, and Vickie Burden are diligently engrossed in the preparation of one of their many meals required for the Home Economics course.

The Industrial Arts program at Churchland encompasses varied components, which include drafting, homemaking, metal shop, and wood shop.

The basic concept of homemaking is to teach the operation of a home with efficiency, economy, and enjoyment. Various projects are undertaken by home economics students, such as garment construction, interior decorating, nutrition, and meal preparation. Through these units of classwork students are constantly exposed to career opportunities available in the field of home economics and management.

In the metal shop boys learn how to construct projects which are both practical and attractive. Some of the many projects constructed this year were a weather vane, tables, and periscopes which were made entirely by hand. Especially interesting were the wrought iron tables made with inlaid tile tops; one unique table had a mirror in the center.

Drafting students built model houses that they themselves had designed. These projects were carefully made to scale out of wood and other materials to simulate actual building construction. These models were very important as a visual concept of what the finished product would look like.

Skills acquired through industrial arts training present employment opportunities and enjoyment for the future handyman and housewife.

GREG GODDIN AND ALTON HYLTON apply the finishing touches to a gun rack. The rack is one of many projects which the boys in wood shop complete during the year.

DICKIE SODERQUIST, A TYPICAL SECOND year drafting student, works late into the night before the deadline, finishing the house he designed for mechanical drawing.

PRACTICAL APPLICAtion of skills is the basis of metal shop. The Guidance Department discovered this when they found their names attractively displayed on wrought iron brackets outside their offices. Bobby Wilkerson, Denny Parish, and Billy Catlett, operating the drill press in metal shop, are making holes in brackets such as these.

Music Department Adds Advanced Girls' Chorus

TO PERFECT THEIR PART OF THE Choral Program, Stephanie O'Connor and Joanne Nance concentrate on tempo and dynamics of "The Waltz of the Flowers" in Advanced Girls' Glee Club rehearsal after school.

Achievement is probably most noticeable in that group of students comprising the Fine Arts Department. Through the three courses included in this department, many opportunities are available to the students who wish to develop further their artistic and musical abilities.

Visible achievement is seen throughout the school year that reflects the training received in class. With the concert presentations of the choruses and the band in assemblies and the Christmas and Spring concerts, the students not enrolled in music are given the chance to share in the hours of hard work leading up to the presentations. Similarly, in art, students can see the results of classwork through the art work displayed in the halls and the bulletin board designs.

New to the vocal section of music this year is the Advanced Girls' Chorus. This group was established as an intermediary singing group in stepping up from Girls' Glee Club to the Mixed Chorus.

In addition to the classroom training, students can gain increased practice and added enjoyment through various contests and all-state participation.

CLARINET, OBOE, SAXOPHONE, trombone, and tuba players get in a last minute rehearsal with the entire band as they strive for perfection the Friday before the Annual Christmas Concert on December 21.

Business Courses Offer Job and Legal Training

Business is the mechanism of every American's life. and the CHS Business Department affords the students the opportunity to become skilled in the varied phases of this field. For every student some element of business education is necessary, whether it be for a lifetime profession or for skill in typing papers in preparation for college. The diversified program of study at CHS this year meets these varied needs. The V. O. T., I. C. T., and D. E. courses provide classroom training, and, paralleling this education, with the co-operation of the local merchants and businessmen, the department is able to furnish on-the-job experience. Often the students find the employment so favorable that they continue work in that particular phase of business after graduation.

On the other hand, a large number of students who intend to further their education beyond high school were seen in the business rooms this year. Business law classes found students interested in extensive education and careers in law. Similarly, typing and shorthand were able to prepare some foresighted students for the burden of college work.

In general, this department has set up its program on the idea that its pupils are dependent upon a business education for the functioning of their daily lives, varied as they may be.

ALL CHURCHLAND STUDENTS spend hours in the library either finding books, doing research for papers, or simply reading. Momo Whitlow is making the most of his study period by exposing himself to some of the different "worlds" he finds in books.

Student Research Aided By Set Of Great Books

As in years past, the library personnel at Churchland sought to carry out its two-fold purpose of supplying students with pleasure reading and research information and acting as the school distribution center for audio-visual materials.

Miss Gibbs, head librarian, and Mrs. Rawls, assistant librarian, indicated that 8,438 books were available to Churchland High School students at the beginning of the year and that at the end of the year, there were about 1,000 new volumes added to these books. Students wore out and lost some 500 books this year. Books, periodicals, and supplies with a total value amounting to $5,426.44 were added to the library for the 1964-65 session; the sources of this money were funds from the city, state, and federal governments and from student fees. Among additions were a set of forty books containing critical essays about famous authors, poets, and philisophers, and a fifty-four volume set of The Great Books. The latter, as well as encyclopedias, were allowed to be checked out. Circulation of books and periodicals averaged about 240 books a day.

Nineteen student library assistants and eight visual aid boys assisted Miss Gibbs and Mrs. Rawls during the period of the day from eight in the morning to four in the afternoon.

With the wide selection of reading materials which are available, the library is a constant source of information and personal enlightenment, and as such, it is continually being used by both faculty and students for research and pleasure reading.

Special Services Carry Out Unnoticed Functions

ONE OF THE EXTRA SERVICES offered at CHS is serving dinner to the Varsity football team before the game.

Though it is not an actual organized department of the school, the Special Services sections are all related in that they perform services vital to the entire school. These functions, often unnoticed, are as necessary for the proper operation of the school as any of the classes of regular instruction.

The cafeteria staff met the responsibility of providing about six-hundred students in two lunch halves with hot lunches daily. With thousands of cartons of milk and hot lunches being served, the eleven workers of the staff still served meals that were nourishing and eagerly devoured by CHS's ever-hungry students.

Custodians, Mr. Goodman and Mr. Starks, assumed the duties of maintaining and repairing school equipment, as well as servicing school buses. These men saw that the heating system was adequately maintained and that the building was always clean and neat.

Mrs. King and Mrs. Eastwood served as secretaries in the main office and helped Mr. Beck more effectively execute the administrative affairs of school. Student office assistants in turn eased their load.

Mrs. Reppert taught the special education class held in the stadium, and by individual instruction she guided each member towards his desired goal.

Mrs. Cunningham, school safety guard, kept traffic moving smoothly before and after school hours and acted as the one who prevented possible accidents among students and other school personnel.

AMONG OTHER AIDS TO CHS, the Guidance Department helps students analyze their scores from college boards, PSAT, National Merit Scholarship, and Scat and Step tests. Here David Lawrence, after taking his first PSAT, receives his rating and its comparison with those nationally and locally from Mrs. Rich.

During the last few years the students of Churchland High have seen the Guidance Department grow and meet the ever-increasing demands made on it. Two major changes have occured this year. First, the physical appearance of the office itself was altered. In the past, the office consisted of one small room completely separated from two other small offices. With this year's alterations, the department now consists of one large reception room with four private offices adjoining it. The office has been refurnished, and students waiting for guidance have places to sit and material to read. The second major change is the addition of a new counselor to the staff, Mrs. Aiken. By assuming the duties of the sophomore class counselor, she made it possible for each of the other three counselors to take responsibility for just one class; thus, for the first time there is one counselor for every class.

With the purpose of advising and counselling as their main objective, the four counselors are daily involved in these areas. Administering standardized tests and evaluating and interpreting the scores consume much of their time. Informing students of college scholarships, and in general presenting opportunities available in all career fields are also valuable services of this department. Along with these and many other routine activities, the Guidance Department has become a vital part of CHS life and work.

Organizations Challenge Development Of Character

The challenges provided by all Churchland High organizations play an important role in high school life, partly because they touch all areas of student interest from sciences and mathematics to foreign languages and physical welfare.

With the existence of organizations in so many diverse areas of interest, there is bound to be at least one group well-suited for each person's needs and desires. People planning to prepare themselves for a business career may find the DE, ICT or FBLA clubs of value, while those seeking a background in other areas may devote their time to the Thespian Troupe, FHA, FTA, SCA, Science Club, Bible Club or Trucker Topics. Students who have been awarded letters for their athletic achievement find pleasure in the Varsity "C" or Monogram Club; others seek fellowship in Hi-Y's or Tri-Hi-Y's.

Not only do Churchland High organizations provide invaluable services for the school and community, but they also help to develop the student's character and to provide him a means of pursuing his interests in the company of others. By so participating in these clubs, a student is presented opportunities outside the classroom to put into practice that which has been learned within.

Since "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," extra-curricular organizations at CHS meet their challenges when they provide the students with the opportunities necessary for escaping any occurence of the ever-impending fatigue of a daily school routine.

"Goals Guide Growth" Directs Aims Of SCA Life

Bearing in mind the SCA state theme "Goals Guide Growth," the Student Council strived toward carrying out the objectives which were established at the beginning of the school year. Considered most important was to improve the relations of students with their SCA. Making use of ideas learned at such inter-school meetings as the SCA Summer Workshop, the Tidewater District Conference, and the Miller and Rhodes Forum, the council focused its attention on activities which promoted the fulfillment of this purpose.

Twice a month the officers and committee chairmen met to discuss the problems and objectives of the SCA and thus fused the student body and the council into one organization, striving for school improvement. The newly created Assembly Committee, working together with older branches of the SCA, presented enjoyable, informative, as well as amusing programs to the students, thereby replacing that former duty of the National Honor Society.

Early in September the SCA began a busy year by holding a tea in honor of the Faculty. At the first assembly the student body was presented a skit which illustrated the importance of co-operative efforts in SCA work. As the weeks progressed, the various committees began to show tangible proof of the many hours spent in planning and carrying out their responsibilities. One of the major projects of the year was to raise money and complete plans for a foreign exchange program. SCA sponsored dances held at homecoming and during the basketball season brought money for executing such a program. Money collected on Quiet Day, together with contributions made by students on the Scholarship Days which were held each month, made it possible for scholarships to be awarded to two graduating seniors in June. At Thanksgiving and Christmas welfare drives were held among the entire student body which brought food, clothing, and toys for needy families of the community.

The SCA at Churchland scored many firsts this year as it sponsored hootenannies at two assemblies, planned and acquired a victory flag for the school, and had the student directory published. The SCA again operated a paperback bookstore, provided handbooks for freshmen and students new to CHS, and in May sponsored Bermuda Day.

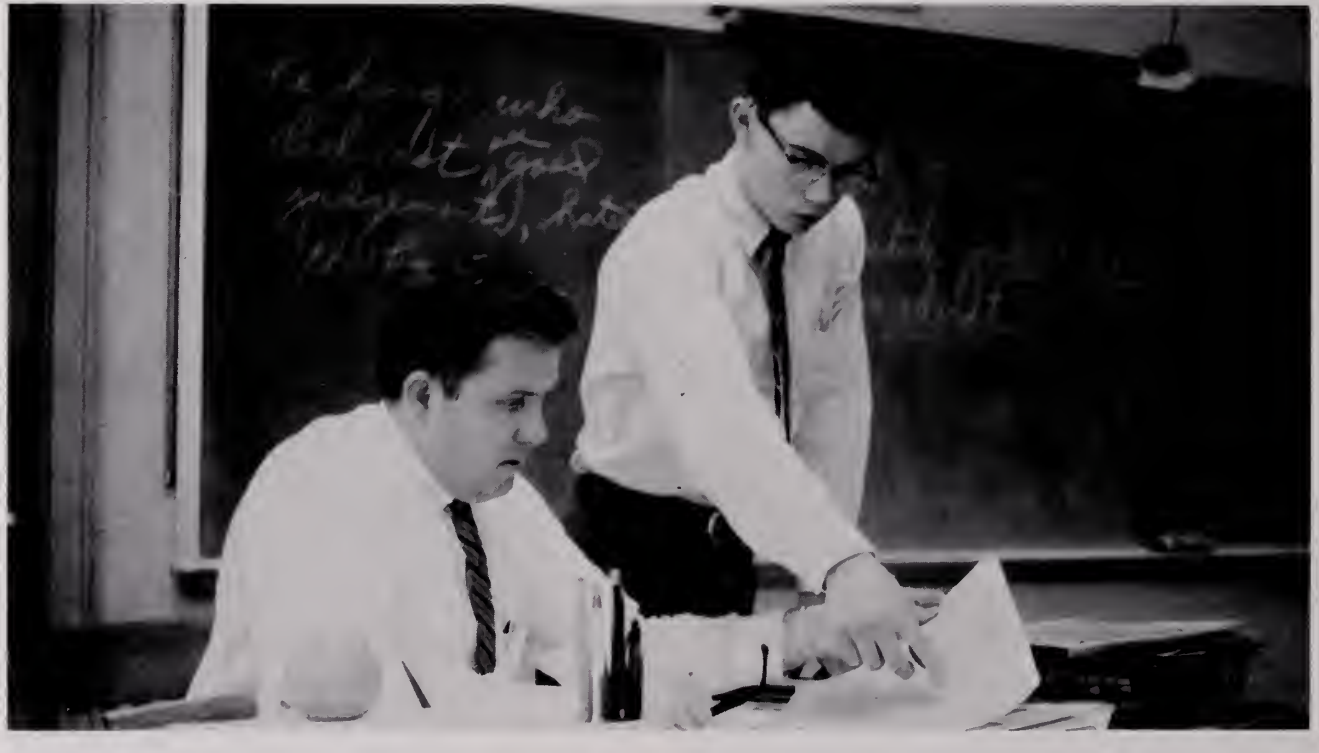
Tri-Editors Struggle To Meet Monthly Deadlines

Operating for the first time with Hunter Publishing Company, The Trucker staff began work on the yearbook during the summer by collecting ads, which totalled more than $1200 by the opening of school.

Over 900 annuals were sold during the subscription drive. For the first year, personalized annuals were offered as an additional feature; only seniors were allowed this privilege. Simultaneously the staff, following rules and suggestions as set down by the Southern Inter-Scholastic Press Association, turned to the problems of selecting a theme, designing a cover, and choosing a member of the faculty for the dedication. These tasks completed, the more specific work was begun on layouts and picture-taking.

Material was gradually completed and sent to the publishing company at monthly intervals, the last deadline coming in April. In late May, the students received their copies of The 1965 Trucker, the biggest yearbook in size ever published by a Trucker staff.

Staff editors for the year were Richard Cloe, Judy Kramer, and Boyd Pace, Tri-editors-in-chiefs; Susan Davenport, Organizations; Barbara Johnson, Features; Johnny Ellis, Sports; Pat Arledge, Academics; Bill Spain, Business Manager; Clyde Kelley, Copy; Helen Wise, Head Typist; and Mr. Moore, Adviser.



THE COMPLEX PROCESS OF CREATING A yearbook allows room for many errors. In reviewing the organizations section, Boyd Pace points out to Mr. Moore an inconsistency on one of the layouts. The discovery and correction of such errors is one of the many jobs of an editor before sending in pages to the publisher on the monthly deadlines.

IN ONE OF THE AFTER-school sessions of the annual staff, Susan Mero and Nancy Brinkley work steadily while Richard Cloe pauses in the midst of a caption to reorganize his thoughts and take some refreshment.

Journalists Report Facts And Features Of CHS

Collecting, writing, and editing news became the job of some thirty journalism students this year as they prepared eight issues of Trucker Topics.

Writing headlines, interviewing various students and teachers, and typing stories took up the journalists' time each day during sixth period.

Sponsored by Mr. Holbrook, the staff raced to meet their monthly deadlines. Current and interesting news was very important to the staff and the reporters busily searched for that which was unusual and different. Each editor worked to publish a paper that would gain the approval of the CHS student body.

From the numerous items placed in the Trucker Topics CHS students became well-informed of the happenings in and around school. The papers also provided entertainment for the Truckers and featured such articles as "Club Chatter," popular opinion polls, and "The Teacher of the Month."

Editors for the past year were Michele Ginsburg, editor-in-chief; Sharon Barker, assistant editor-in-chief; Jay Paul, sports; Betty Waldo, photo; and Barbara Johnson and Rowena Rich, layout.

DE Program Expanded To Include Sophomores

To form a more effective program, the work of the DE students was presented to the sophomores with the idea of making a three-year course. This year's club members took an active part in recruiting and in explaining the advantages of enrolling in DE.

The purpose of the DE Club is to further education in distribution and marketing. By developing a better understanding of merchandising, it also teaches selling through proper advertising and displays.

During the school year, the club was involved in many projects and services. The members participated in the D.E.C.A. Scholarship campaign and shared in a community service project. Before Christmas, the club gave a plaque for the best holiday door decoration.

By participating in district, state, and national leadership conferences, members gained further insights of distribution and marketing.

ICT Club Gives Hour's Pay To "Dimes March"

Mindful of the purpose of teaching a purposeful skill and promoting employer-employee relationships, the ICT Club helps prepare students for the future by providing for both an education and guided job training. This policy has been extremely profitable and helpful for students enrolled in this course.

Also important to the members were the club's extracurricular activities. For Thanksgiving, food and money were collected and contributed to the needy. Each member pledged one hour's pay to be given to the March of Dimes. A poster project took place in which each participant made a poster about his occupation or the club. The winners took their posters to a district meet in February that had several kinds of contests. This and the state convention were attended by several members. Another highlight of the year was the Employer-Employee Banquet.

In its fourth year of existence at CHS, the Spanish Club furnished an opportunity for students to use conversational Spanish outside of Spanish-speaking nations, and to encourage achievement in the language on an international basis. In order to do these things, Los Amigos had several programs of guest speakers and were shown movies on Spanish culture. A fiesta and pinata were the highlights of the Christmas meeting.

Members worked diligently to enter their float, Miguelito Raton, in the homecoming parade in October.

The presentation of pins and awards were made at the club's annual spring banquet which was held at a local Mexican restaurant.

While enjoying the club's activities, members also learned about such things as bull fighting, coffee-making, and "el paisaje de Espana."

Bible Club Gives Picnic For Westhaven Boys

THROUGH A SERIES OF SLIDES AND recorded comments, Mr. Norman Wakefield, Educational Director of Biltmore Baptist Church, gives a program on "Christ in the Tabernacle."

By promoting the spread of Christianity in personal witnessing and by participating in Christian activities, the members of the Bible Club performed many useful services for the school and community during the past year. These services included a project for supplying the members of the CHS faculty with pocket calendars, ink blotters, and other similar materials. In the spring they sponsored a picnic for some members of the Westhaven Home for Boys. To raise the necessary funds for these activities, the club tried to have at least one money-making project per month, such as bake sales and the sale of candy and pecans.

Each month plans were made for at least one party or social gathering, at which time they had an opportunity for enjoying fellowship and refreshments. Various guests were also invited to present programs at these meetings.

For the Bible Club, the climax of the school season was a banquet held in the middle of May for all the members and for the guests who spoke to the club throughout the year.

Officers for the year were Winnice Boush, pres.; Steve Futrell, v.-pres.; Sandra Taylor, sec-treas.; Sandy Pickett, chap.; and Mr. Branch, sponsor.

Bell Telephone Films Augment Scientific Studies

The Science Club served as the nucleus of scientific interest at CHS. Students concerned with promoting scientific achievement and individual research were attracted to this organization. The meetings, some attended by guest speakers, consisted of programs on the different fields of science. A few Bell Telephone System films were shown. To prepare for the Virginia Junior Academy of Science, members gave reports on their projects, and the National Science Foundation participants, Richard Cloe, Clyde Kelley, and Larry Whitehurst, reported on their studies of the past summer, which included topics in the areas of mathematics, engineering, and electronics.

Statewide recognition has been attained by the CHS Science Club through the accomplishments of its members at various contests. They represented the club in the Tidewater Science Congress, the Science Talent Search, and the Future Scientists of America Contest. Several members presented their projects in Richmond. The school science fair in February was sponsored by the Science Club.

Officers for the year were Larry Whitehurst, pres.; Carl Barrett, v.-pres.; Ken Lebow, sec.; Don Robinson, hist.; and Mr. Niemeyer, sponsor.

"One Of Us" Delivers Gripping Murder Mystery

Different from years past, the Dramatics Club and the Thespian Troupe consolidated into one organization, the Thespian Club. While keeping in mind their purpose of gaining a fuller appreciation of the Dramatic Arts by study and participation, each month the Thespians had some type of project which was either social or learning. Usually they presented a skit to their members, which not only provided enjoyment but also helped the members in learning "to act." At other times, the club had parties or visited other dramatics organizations to see what neighboring schools were doing in the art of drama. In the spring, when new members were inducted into the Thespian Club, a play was presented to them as an introduction and exhibition of the work of the CHS dramatics club. This gave the new members a preview of the work of the coming year.

February marked the performance of the club's one act competition play, "One of Us." This theatrical production was a mystery comedy involving a cast of six people. The play was performed in assembly in preparation for district competition in March.

Officers for the year were Marilyn Lorance, pres.; Susannah Davis, v.-pres.; Diane Griffith, sec.-treas.; Bob Lorance, parl.; and Mr. Gwin, sponsor.

Debate is the stimulating process of a clashing of ideas between individuals whose arguments are supported by logic and evidence. With this in mind, the seventeen CHS debators and Mrs. Smith, their sponsor, spent hours in research and practice.

This year, the members were confronted with the problem, "Resolved: That Nuclear Weapons Should Be Controlled By An International Organization." High school students throughout Virginia, as well as the United States, debated this topic for the 1964-65 school year. Through hard work and research, members of the team learned much about a dilemma which affects every person in today's world; it also gave them an insight and understanding into an issue that they otherwise might never have grasped.

To gain skill in debate techniques team members participated in tournaments held at Ferguson, Norfolk Catholic, and the Eastern District Debate, besides the regular dual school matches. The debaters were further exposed to varied debate tactics and ideas by attending the workshop held at ODC.

The entire debate procedure, a vital learning activity, taught each member to organize his thoughts, to think quickly, and to speak before an audience in a fluent and persuasive manner.

INFORMALLY DEBATING AND EXCHANGING ideas among themselves, Eleanor Woollard, Bill Spain, Joe Braintwain, Ken Lebow, and Kenny Marc prepare their tactics for an upcoming debate.

Slave Sale Supports Mr.-Miss Churchland Contest

WHILE THEIR REGULAR MEETING IS proceeding, Jud Dennis, Mac Doughtie, Katherine Caffee, and Cindy Hardi son make paper flowers for the annual Mr. and Miss Church land contest.

Having inducted twenty-one new members into the club in September, Churchland Tri-Hi-Y set out to make this year productive and one of service. They began the year right by entering their colorful float, "Smokey the Bear," in the Homecoming Parade. Among the numerous service projects were making favors for the children in the hospital at Halloween and contributing to the school welfare drive at Thanksgiving. At Christmas, the members "adopted" a needy family and busied themselves by collecting clothing, food, and toys for the family. They helped instill spirit in the student body by the nomination of a "Mr. and Miss School Spirit" each month. In order to secure finances for their biggest annual project, the "Mr. and Miss Churchland" contest held in February, the club held a slave sale and a bake sale. The profits from the beauty contest represented the club's contribution to the World Service Program sponsored by all of the Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's.

Officers for the year were Julia Spencer, pres.; Bonnie Broughton, v.-pres.; Jody Swanson, sec.; Donna Brantley, treas.; Karen Engel, chap.; Alice Eure, parl.; Janet Weatherford, sgt.-at-arms; Beth Tew, corr. sec.; Susie Loudon, hist.; Miss Van Dyck, spon.

Succedo Chooses Dick Shea As Brother Hi-Y

Succedo Tri-Hi-Y found that projects were an ideal way to set their example of "high standards of Christian character." Club officers and their sponsor stressed the importance of extending the responsibility of club activities and projects to all members; Succedo's members responded by giving active support to every undertaking.

The club co-operated with Dick Shea Hi-Y in their joint effort to produce a float for the Homecoming parade. Because of their success in this effort, Succedo voted to accept Dick Shea Hi-Y as its brother Hi-Y. The two clubs held several meetings together and went to Matthews County for a social.

Service to the school included a "Clean Restrooms" campaign and the handling of registration for voting in the Mock Election. Succedo also helped boost school spirit by selling pep ribbons during the football season. For community projects, the girls donated children's books to Maryview Hospital and presented Christmas stockings to St. Mary's Infant Home.

Club officers for the year were Sharon Barker, pres.; Patty Hoffler, v.pres.; Ruth Ann Bartley, sec.; Sandy Bailey, treas.; Cynthia Pollard, rep.; and Miss Parker, sponsor.

WITH A CAN OF SPRAY PAINT AND THE assistance of Connie Holtoff, Sharon Barker adds finishing touches to "B.C." before placing him on the float which Succedo built with Dick Shea.

Tri-Hi-Y Changes Name, Memorializes President

EMMA RIGGINS CUTS OUT PAPER VALENTINES AS Nancy Turnage adds the final touches of lace frill on these small messages of cheer for children in a local hospital.

In memoriam to Connie Hemby, Truckers Tri-Hi-Y re-dedicated themselves to their purpose by changing their name to Constance Hemby Tri-Hi-Y. In support of their purpose the club performed many services to the community through projects. Some such projects were the giving of food to a needy family at Thanksgiving; the giving of food, toys, and clothes to a family at Christmas; the collection of magazines for an old folks home and visiting the home; and the collection of candy for children at a local hospital during Halloween. The members had a Christmas party and a pajama party while money making projects included several bake sales, a "Snowball" dance, and the selling of candy bars. The club sent several members to attend the district conference and participated in Homecoming by building a float.

Other activities during the year included helping to support a Korean orphan, having "Heart Sisters" during the valentine season, and sending a representative to the Model General Assembly.

Officers for the year were Connie Hemby, pres.; Jerry Darden, v.-pres.; Rowena Rich, sec.; Sheila Schiemann, treas.; Nancy Turnage, corr. sec.; Mel Cross, chap.; and Miss Hart, sponsor.

Club Decorates Lounges With Baskets Of Fruit

In its second year as an affiliated club, Perrecta set out to prove that a young Tri-Hi-Y at CHS could hold its own with other older clubs. Their induction service, the first order of business, was followed by a candy bar sale. To add to the personal touch, a tea was held for the advisory committee. A pajama party provided the members a chance to relax and enjoy themselves.

Christmas found the members busy with many projects. Fruit baskets were placed in the teachers' lounges before Christmas and, presents were carried to an orphange to extend the Christmas spirit. Their own Christmas party was held over the holidays at a member's home. For the spring projects, a bake sale and bottle collection were held in order to increase the club's treasury. This money was used for an outing at the end of school.

Officers for the year were Lucy Brown, pres.; Janet Langston, v.-pres.; Claudia Crandall, sec.; Brenda Taylor, treas.; Mary Morrison, corr. sec.; and Miss Martin, sponsor.

Truckers Hi-Y proved to be the premier club in the area this year. It won an "ACE" award from the state, and the Portsmouth area council of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y's chose this Hi-Y as the most outstanding club in the area. Truckers Hi-Y also had two of the leading people in the state in their club. Momo Whitlow was selected the outstanding member in the area, as well as Vice-President of Blue Ridge, Vice-President of the District Conference, President of the Portsmouth Council and the Senate at M.G.A. Johnny Ellis, a junior, was elected President of Blue Ridge Assembly and Vice-President of the District Conference of Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's.

During this year, Truckers Hi-Y carried several projects in order to retain their "ACE" award. The homecoming float in the fall was the main goal and was again a hit. The sale of programs at home basketball games proved to be a profitable service. The presentation of the Frank D. Beck Service Award to an outstanding senior was a part of the activities for the year. In the spring, a combo party was held especially for the members and their dates, and the annual hayride ended a most successful year.

Officers for this year were Momo Whitlow, pres.; Johnny Ellis, v.-pres.; Mel Kunkle, sec.; Bill Murden, treas.; J. P. Leigh, chap.; Jackie Taylor and Jim Gaskins, sgts.-at-arms; and Mr. Walton, sponsor.

FOR A MONEY-MAKING PROJECT, TRUCKERS Hi-Y sold programs at all home basketball games. Mr. Noble Moore takes time out during the game to purchase a copy from Bill Creech.

AS PART OF ITS SERVICES TO THE SCHOOL, Truckers erected a sign in the gymnasium to publicize home basketball games. Momo Whitlow and Johnny Ellis climb ladders to place two announcements of upcoming games in February.

In the fall, the Cem float, based on the comic strip character "Moon Maid," won third prize in the homecoming celebrations. This was the first major project involving the efforts of the old and new members. The annual Bunny Hop which took place in the spring provided much enjoyment for others. This and a bake sale served as money making projects for a donation to the World Service and Extension Fund. New officers, elected at the end of the school year, were installed at the Mother-Daughter Banquet.

Members of Cem Tri-Hi-Y advanced their purpose of service with the accomplishment of many worthwhile projects this year. Support of a Korean orphanage was continued, and at Thanksgiving food was taken to a needy family. During the Christmas season each member gave a small gift to be taken to the Home for the Aged, and stuffed toys were made to brighten the holidays for children in Maryview Hospital. The Churchland school library also benefitted from a donation made by Cem.

Spring Show Gives Early Peek At New Fashions

Throughout the year, Webb Tri-Hi-Y participated in numerous and varied activities. Making a float for homecoming was the first project of the year. "Dennis the Menace" rightly carried out the theme. A pajama party, without sleep, was held after the last football game of the season. With the coming of the holiday season, Webb got into the Christmas spirit by providing clothes, food, and toys for an under-privileged family. A Christmas party brought the girls together during the holidays.

The week before Valentine's Day was filled with receiving gifts from each member's secret heart sister. On Valentine's Day, the girls gathered for a tea at which time they revealed themselves to their heart sisters. The annual fashion show, presented in the spring, gave the audience a look at new fashions. At the mother-daughter banquet which was held in May, the club installed its newly-elected officers for the coming year and brought a close to its activities for a while.

Officers for the year were Bonnie Babbitt, pres.; Pat Tynch, v.-pres.; Stephanie O'Connor, sec.; Alexis Tew, treas.; Janet Thornhill, chap.; and Miss Rountree, sponsor.

The annual Easter Sunrise Service held by the Portsmouth Hi-Y's and Tri-Hi-Y's was organized and co-ordinated this year by Dick Shea Hi-Y. As another community project, food was collected monthly and given to a needy family in the community. Besides serving the community, Dick Shea also attempted to better the school through its school service projects. Among these were a "Keep Our Lunchroom Clean" campaign, a "School Spirit" project, and helping the SCA with its dance in January. While trying to fulfill its purpose as a service organization, the club also held socials for the enjoyment of the members. A weekend trip with Succedo Tri-Hi-Y to Matthews County and the annual spring hayride were highlights of the club's social activities.

The members of the club learned about the Hi-Y history and the purpose of a Hi-Y club through various programs held during the meetings. This learning was continued by members who attended Blue Ridge, the Model General Assembly, and the district conference which are workshops sponsored by the YMCA that teach the responsibilities of the club and its officers.

Officers for the year were Bill Spain, pres.; Marty Martin, v.-pres.; Nicky Psimas, treas.; Wayne Hitchings, sec.; Kenny Pritchard, sgt-at-arms; and Mr. Howard, sponsor.

DICK SHEA HI-Y MEMBERS CLEARED the school cafeteria for an SCA dance as one of their service projects. Bill Spain and Boyd Pace begin the task by stacking and moving chairs.

PAYMENT OF WEEKLY DUES BY ALL MEMBERS is necessary for the proper functioning of any Hi-Y. After a Thursday night meeting, Nicky Psimas, treasurer, checks with Eddie Jones and Wayne Clark to give them an oral financial statement as to their standings.

WORKING WELL INTO THE NIGHT, BOBBY WOODARD and Keith Dresch, along with other members of Dick Shea Hi-Y, are preparing their entry for the homecoming parade. As part of a minature football field for their cartoon character "B.C.", the boys are setting up the framework for goal posts.

Bake Sales Help Raise Money For New Tri-Hi-Y

This year witnessed the formation of an additional Tri-Hi-Y whose members have assumed an active role in the extra-curricular activities of Churchland High. At various times during the year Beck Tri-Hi-Y placed cookies, fudge, and brownies in the teachers' lounges as part of their school-wide service project.

In November they made Thanksgiving favors which were distributed in the children's ward at Maryview Hospital, thus displaying their sense of responsibility to the surrounding community.

Among their other projects, this busy Tri-Hi-Y had a Christmas party and went on a caroling trip. In the latter part of January, the club invited its prospective members to a party celebrating Y.M.C.A. Week. In April they sent two representatives to the Model General Assembly meeting in Richmond. A month later they had a mother-daughter banquet.

To raise the money needed for all these activities and to build up the treasury, they sold candy bars and held bake sales.

Officers for the year were Susan Miner, pres.; Anne Creekmore, v-pres.; Kay Cochran, sec.; Carol Denker, treas.; Cheryl Cook, chap.; Carolyn Norman, rep.; Tommie Haralson, hist.; and Mrs. Lowry, sponsor.

Hi-Y Program Grows With Addition Of New Club

With the formation of Churchland Hi-Y, membership into another fraternal organization was offered to the boys at Churchland. These new Hi-Y members got off to an early start by selling candy for the purpose of making a donation to the World Service Program, sponsored by the YMCA. With their participation in this worthwhile organization, the boys acquired a sense of sharing and personal satisfaction in helping others.

To maintain and carry out the club's purpose of offering its services to world and community causes, Churchland Hi-Y filled a basket with fruit and gave it to the Westhaven Old Folks Home for Christmas. They also ushered at the Easter Sunrise Services, held at the Naval Hospital. All these facets of Hi-Y activity gave the boys a feeling of more responsibility and experience in helping others. As the newest Hi-Y, this club thus began to do its part in furthering the work of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y movement.

Officers for the year were Carter Jennings, pres.; John Bauswell, v.-pres.; Carlton Biscoe, sec.; Terry Buchanan, treas.; Ronald McClendon, sgt.-at-arms; Danny Gray, chap.; and Mr. Welsh, sponsor.

AT ONE OF THEIR WEEKLY MEETINGS held at the YMCA, Churchland Hi-Y President Carter Jennings leads some of the club members in an informal discussion of pending business.

Skit Dramatizes Do's, Don't's Of School Etiquette

GLADYS GROSS, PORTRAYED BY ANN HAGERT, prepares to adorn the water fountain in a "lovely, dull, chewed-up pink," while Michelle, Barbara, and Sandy gaze in approval.

The Pierette Club is unique in promoting charm and etiquette among senior girls. At their monthly meetings the girls dress in their best and share in the thrill of actually acting the part of young women. Their meetings resemble more those of a women's club than of a high school organization. Their guest speakers at meetings offer tips on beauty, etiquette, manners, and fashion.

This year the Pierette Club attempted to extend its influence to more of the student body. Realizing the need for some instruction on school etiquette, the girls decided to write a satirical skit for an assembly. With the catchy title of "Gladys Gross and Her Gross-Out Gang," the skit not only entertained the students but also allowed them to see themselves in some of the characters portrayed.

As a service project the girls in the club served as hosts in the Portsmouth Museum on Sunday afternoons. While helping out at the museum, they were able at the same time to make use of their knowledge of charm and etiquette.

Officers for the year were Shelia Schiemann, pres.; Linda Martin, v.-pres.; Gail Cline, sec.; Dixie Horton, treas.; Karen Engel, chap.; and Mrs. Smith, sponsor.

The Monogram Club strives to stimulate interest in all phases of the girls' athletic program at Churchland. The club tries to promote and develop school spirit and a true feeling of sportsmanship. Membership in the club was increased by offering letters to any girl who attended Churchland High School and played on a softball team in the Chesapeake Recreation Department. These girls also had to be recommended by their respective coaches. With this in mind, the club for the first time entered a float in the homecoming parade. The theme was "Blondie and Dagwood," and even though it didn't win a prize, it set a precedent for next year's members. The final activity was the annual picnic and beach party which was held in late spring at Virginia Beach.

The prime target for the club was to supplement the fund for buying curtains for the girls' gym. They accomplished this by sponsoring two post-season basketball games. The first was between the varsity and the girls' basketball team and the second was a student-faculty game. A week at Virginia Beach provided club members with an ideal way to round out the year's activities.

Officers for the year were Paulette Spruill, pres.; Sandy Bailey, v.-pres.; Donna Brantley, sec.; Linnea Woodling, treas.; and Miss Van Dyck, sponsor.

Varsity "C" Letters Add School Spirit To CHS

AT THE OSCAR SMITH BASKETBALL GAME, Johnny Woodard gladly makes another drink sale and thus adds more money to the Varsity "C" treasury from this yearly club project.

Throughout the year, the members of the Varsity "C" Club extended an invitation of affiliation to all the Churchland boys who earned a varsity letter for the first time. Besides wearing coats and ties, the boys who accepted the invitation sold drinks and candy at all home basketball and baseball games. Each senior member of the club was "required" to serve as big brother to a pledge, who was, in turn, "allowed" to make life a little more pleasant for the older member by performing various services for him.

Club activities also included sponsoring the Harvest Queen in October and the student-faculty basketball game after the regular basketball season. The final activity was the annual picnic and beach party which was held in late spring at Virginia Beach.

In an effort to boost school spirit, the club set aside every other Friday for the wearing of school letters. Members brought the track record case up-to-date twice during the school year.

Calendar Sale Helps Finance New Band Uniforms

To assure its precision on the field, the CHS Band began the year with marching rehearsals before the opening of school. During football season the band represented Churchland at almost all the games. With ten new and original half-time shows and with fight songs played in the stands, the band entertained spectators and helped boost school spirit.

This year the band employed a new technique which consisted of using flashlights to produce "lighted" formations." The purpose was to enhance the half-time shows with something a little out of the ordinary.

The majorettes have always given the band the eye appeal for its football shows. With new uniforms and new hair styles this year, the CHS majorettes added fire-twirling to their usual routines. These baton pyrotechnics were used especially to augment the band's "lighted formations."

Immediately following football season while the band was busily preparing the Christmas Concert, the individual members were intently practicing for the All-Regional Band auditions.

The festive holiday spirit of CHS was magnified with the annual Christmas Band Concert. But the holidays were over all too quickly as the band began three long months of preparation for the Spring Festival. The band competed in the most difficult musical category, grade six. The Churchland organization was fortunate enough to draw the final position in the order of presentation. This allowed the band to perform after the other six competitors in the grade six division.

With the pressures of the Festival behind them, the band members directed their efforts toward the presentation of two spring concerts. The first included more light or "pop" music. During the spring season the band also gave concerts at the local elementary schools.

Since money is essential to the functioning of the band, its members held two money-raising projects during the year. Candy was sold at Christmas to help with general expenses, and birthday calendars were sold in order to finance new uniforms.

New Group, Blazers Effect Change In Choruses

An enthusiastic Mixed Chorus greeted the newest addition to the choral department this year — black blazers with an emblem of orange and white. These blazers, paired with white button-down shirts for both boys and girls, gave this chorus a distinguishing character when it performed in its concerts.

For the first time the choral department of Chesapeake and Portsmouth high schools combined their mixed choruses into a unit for learning in a music seminar, or two day music clinic. After a thorough understanding of the music, the student gave an informal performance of the newly-learned songs at Oscar Smith High School. The students were taught by three outstanding musicians — Mr. Eliot Breneiser from Old Dominion College who lectured and demonstrated music of the Renaissance; Mr. Donald Smith of Frederick College who lectured and demonstrated music of the Classical Period; and Miss Emma Lou Diemer from Arlington who lectured and demonstrated music of the Contemporary Period.

The Advanced Girls' Glee Club, a group newly-formed this year, is an extension of the Girls' Glee Club. The thirty members were given a more advanced course in theory, music, and vocal techniques than they had received as members of the Girls' Glee Club.

Boys were introduced to the challenge of music in the Men's Glee Club, a growing organization in its second year. The boys, along with the Triple Trio, gave an enjoyable performance of folk music and popular music to the FHA Convention held in March.

Throughout the year the department fulfilled its three-fold purpose: to teach basic fundamentals of musicianship; to acquire knowledge concerning choral literature of important periods in a challenging learning process; and to give the unit of singers opportunity to display its work before audiences.

When the choral department presented its traditional Christmas Concert for a standing-room-only audience, "The Hallelujah Chorus," sung by the combined groups, struck awe and admiration into its listeners. With Spring came the presentation of the Spring Concert and the finishing touches of a year's work well-done.

FEELINGS OF EXcitement are contagious as the members of the Girls' Glee Club anxiously wait on stage during their Christmas Concert. Mrs. Blake gives final words of encouragement before the curtain opens.

Triple Trio's Popularity Brings Honor To CHS

WHILE THE LARGER CHORAL UNITS exchange places behind the curtain at the Christmas Concert, the Triple Trio entertains the audience with their arrangement of "Carol of the Bells."

Everyone who passes by the chorus room before school hears the voices of the Triple Trio practicing music. After learning notes and timings with the help of the student director and accompanist, the girls perfect their music with Mrs. Blake's finishing touches. The reward of this work is a performance well-done.

As a group the Triple Trio was first presented to the school during a freshman-sophomore assembly before a hootenanny. During the Miss Churchland Contest, the audience was somewhat surprised and delighted at the gestures during the song "I'm gonna Wash That Man Right Outta My Hair" and the Triple Trio's sitting on the stage. Not only was the Triple Trio enjoyed by the students of CHS, but also by various area civic clubs and government organizations, and music teachers at the District T Teachers Meeting.

The Triple Trio received five new members after a week of strenuous auditions in which forty-five girls tried out. The procedures the girls went through included individual sight-reading, blend within given groups and in a trio, and knowledge of music learned overnight. The difficulties involved in the decision were illustrated in Mrs. Blake's having to make three eliminations.

Good Will Promoted By Adoption Of Mexican Girl

HAVING WON STATE degrees for their work on projects in FHA, Cheryl Draper, Tina Holthoff, Tommie Haralson (in front), Carolyn Page and Judy Majors thus added new honors to the school and themselves.

As one of their projects for the year, the FHA adopted a Mexican girl. Gifts were sent to her for Christmas, on her birthday, and at other special occasions during the year. As another project, an orphan's home in Korea received old Christmas cards that had been collected by the club's members.

Throughout the year, the future homemakers carried out their purpose of furthering interest in homemaking, promoting international good will, and developing creative leadership.

Elation became the by-word for the year when the club members were awarded first place for their entry in the homecoming festivities. Coffee and refreshments provided by the FHA were greatly appreciated by the teachers on evaluation day. During the spring months, FHA members paid a visit to the home for the aged. On March 3 the FHA club was hostess to the annual spring rally of the Elizabeth River Federation of the Future Homemakers of America.

Officers for the year were Linda Jackson, pres.; Mary Haneman, corr. sec.; Nina Jo Beasley, rec. sec.; Jeanie Haynes, treas.; Barbara Smith, hist.; Carolyn Munnerlyn, chap.; Teresa Windley, parl.; Cindy Pollard, rep.; Frieda Raper, sgt.-at-arms; and Mrs. Woodling, sponsor.

IN OCTOBER AFTER THE INITIATION of newly-chosen members into the FHA, a cook-out was held to add the final welcoming touch to these "gaily-attired" initiates of the club.

Teachers Assisted By FTA On Evaluation Day

ENJOYING THE "Goodies" prepared for them by the FTA at the club's annual teacher's tea, Mrs. Rogers and Mr. Gaskins load up with cookies and candy. Miss Massey has already tested the food and is coming back for seconds.

In order to gain experience in the field of education, members of the Future Teachers of America spent much time substitute teaching in high school, junior high, and elementary school classes. This work enabled club members to understand more fully student-teacher relationship. By doing such things as running errands, duplicating report cards, and aiding with registration, club members assisted the faculty at the end of each semester.

The services of the club were extended in numerous other ways to benefit the faculty of Churchland. Refreshments were placed in the faculty lounges, and in April, in the cafeteria. Every month a teacher was honored as the teacher-of-the-month, and in November a tea was held for all faculty members. The Churchland FTA was distinguished by having two district officers. Ruth Ann Bartley served as district president, and Becky Wright was parliamentarian. By selling candy, pom-poms for homecoming, and holding a bake sale, the future teachers were able to present a graduating club member with a scholarship.

Officers for the year were Ruth Ann Bartley, pres.; Sandy Thomas, v.-pres.; Lynn Aligood, sec.; Mary Jo Bishop, treas.; Jeanie Brewster, chap.; Teresa Miller, hist.; and Mrs. Lowry, sponsor.

AT THE ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE FOR PARENTS, FTA members Gail Gutzler, Patsy Jones, Teresa Miller, and Ruth Ann Bartley aid parents in finding their children's schedule cards.

FBLA Club Project Brings Happier Christmas

AT THEIR FBLA VALENTINE'S DAY PARTY, Melanie Baker and Judy Fitch find much to laugh about as they discuss what has gone on during the evening.

The Future Business Leaders of America is an organization whose function is to encourage, promote, and develop competent and aggressive business leaders in America. It is organized to create a better understanding of business occupations and to further an active interest in them.

During the year, the FBLA engaged in many school and out-of-school activities. They assisted the Cancer Society in its work and participated in the Christmas toy drive for underprivileged children. They also provided a basket of food during the same time for a family which was in need. At other times of the year, the club sponsored a bake sale and promoted other projects, such as selling candy to raise money for the scholarship fund and making some scrapbooks for children in a local hospital. The members also took part in other outside activities; they held a joint meeting at Wilson, had socials at Christmas and Valentine's, and participated in regional and state contests.

Officers for the year were Marsha Fink, pres.; Bonnie Zorn, v.-pres.; Polly Beale, sec.; Maureen Parker, treas.; Jean Crowder, parl.; Evelyn Workman, rep.-hist.; and Miss Wright, sponsor.

BONNIE ZORN PRESents the final item for discussion to bring the business session of an FBLA meeting to close. Other club members prepare refreshments which will be served after the meeting.

Sports Offer Challenges For Physical Achievement

In essence, athletics is a continuous sequence of challenges demanding the optimum of every participant. Among the most important of these challenges is good sportsmanship which is characteristic of success and which must be applied to all sports. Going hand in hand with sportsmanship are other admirable traits, such as proper attitude, stamina, determination, and persistence, without which this primary quality would be of little value. Determination is evident in the forward's all out effort to sink the ball just one more time before the sound of the final buzzer, as it is in the halfback's inch by inch struggle up the gridiron toward the coveted goal. The wrestler demonstrates the importance of stamina as he expends all his energy in an attempt to better his opponent while the clock is slowly but steadily ticking away the seconds. The value of persistence is demonstrated by the miler who continues to lap the track despite the painful gnawing within his chest. The importance of one's attitude may be revealed by such things as the amount of effort an outfielder puts forth in grasping for a fly that could save the game.

The activities of an athlete result in a double burden. Because he is a student, he must also face the challenges of an academic life, and there is no assurance that he will be victorious in either. However, achievement is not always indicated by the scoreboard but by an inner feeling of a job well done. This is the height of achievement.

Kenny Currie, As Churchland's First All - Stater,

With a squad composed of twenty-five seniors, the Churchland Truckers finished their season with a 7-3 record, their second in as many years. In matching last season's mark, the Truckers ranked third in the district. Since joining the Eastern District in 1955, no Churchland football team has placed this high in the final standings.

Following the leadership of "second-year" coaches at Churchland, Art Brandriff and Blake Yost, and "Rookie" Bob Walton, the Truckers played the type of ball that could be attributed to a fine, seasoned team. Churchland assured many of their foes that they were really an experienced squad with their ablity and hustle. Injuries were a major factor in this year's team. In more games than one, several first-team players were sidelined, but this gave the younger boys a chance to play, giving needed experience for next season. This proved to be a well-balanced squad.

Special honors were received by All-Metro Team Ashley Butler and Dickie Arculin. Quarterback Ken Currie was named to the first-team All-State squad, as well as being chosen the most outstanding back in Tidewater.

Churchland 12 - Maury 6

Before a crowd of 4,500 at Foreman Field, Churchland defeated the Commodores 12-6. Early in the first quarter Gene Brown picked up a fumble and carried it 40 yards for a Churchland score. After that, the game became a defensive battle with the Trucker defense holding Maury to under 90 yards rushing and 30 yards passing. Late in the last quarter, Kenny Currie sprinted 47 yards for a score and completed one of the most spectacular plays of the year and gave Churchland its first victory of the season.

Churchland 25 - Wilson 6

Churchland's powerful team outclassed rival Wilson for the second win of the season. Big George Constantinides scored two touchdowns, but this rambling fullback also picked up 78 yards rushing, intercepted a pass, and made many key tackles. The Trucker defensive unit suffered a great loss when 250-pound Roger Lesoine suffered an appendicitis attack before the game and when Mel Kunkle was sidelined by a hip injury. Currie passed for 122 yards and rushed for 57 in another fine performance.

Churchland 19 - Deep Creek 0

Kenny Currie scored one touchdown and passed for two more to Dwight Smith and Jim Wayland in a 19-0 defeat over Deep Creek, but actually his outstanding defensive play saved the game. Twice the Hornets broke runners into the clear with only one Trucker uniform between the ball carrier and the goal line. Each time it was Currie and each time he made the stop. Currie ended up with 187 yards total offense. Dwight Smith gained 31 yards to help boost Churchland's record to three straight wins.

Churchland 12 - Princess Anne 16

Churchland suffered its first loss of the season on Princess Anne's mud-soaked field, 16-12. They suffered a greater loss in the second quarter when tri-captain Mel Kunkle received a knee injury and was lost for the rest of the season. Churchland's offense was stymied for most of the game, but the defense accounted for the scores. Joe Braintwain intercepted a pass and went 100 yards for the longest interception of the year. Another intercepted pass by Gene Brown led to Churchland's other tally.

Churchland 6 - Great Bridge 21

Feeling the loss of several first-rate players, Churchland sustained its second defeat of the season to a fired-up Great Bridge eleven. Robert Lawson supplied most of the rushing yardage, but penalties and bad breaks kept the Trucker offense deep in its own territory. In the second quarter Kenny Currie picked off a Great Bridge pass and raced 100 yards for the 6 points. Going into the fourth quarter, Churchland was behind only 7-6, but the Truckers were unable to contain the Wildcats in the final quarter.

Churchland 31 - Granby 12

The Truckers proved to be formidable foes for most of their opponents, but they were helpless to just one. Hurricane Isbel threatened the Tidewater area on Friday night, thus postponing Churchland's annual homecoming game until the following Monday night. The Truckers scored three quick touchdowns and were apparently streaking toward another victory when the spirited Granby team narrowed the score 19-12 at halftime. Then, Kenny Currie and company took over and proved to be too strong for the Comets.

THE DISTRICT'S LEADING PASSER with 12 touchdown tosses, Kenny Currie (16) rolls to his left in search of a receiver. His pursuers are Suffolk's Glen Cole (38) and David Darden (42).

GENE BROWN (80) AND Mel Kunkle (60), drive Maury's quarterback Don Gibbs (12) out of bounds.

GEORGE CONSTANTINIDES (33) crashes through the center of the Oscar Smith line behind the blocking of guards Buddy Perkins (64) and John Woodard (65) during one of the team's few ground gains.

MEL KUNKLE, A STAND-out on defense before his injuries sidelined him, stops Maury halfback James Ford (44) for no gain.

SURROUNDED BY A HOST OF GRANBY players, Ron Hill (82), Jerry Baum (30), Steve Whitcomb (41), and Bob Miller (21), Danny James (11) leaps high in the air to catch a pass in the opening moments of the second half.

DWIGHT SMITH (25) RECEIVES A fine block from Kenny Currie (16) and sweeps around right end despite the defensive efforts of Deep Creek's Charles Creekmore (81), Ronnie Dillinger (33), Mike Knowles (74), and David Turpin (82).

Churchland 47 - Suffolk 0

The Truckers breezed to their fifth win in seven outings in defeating Suffolk. Churchland's do-it-all quarterback, Kenny Currie, proved to be too much for the hapless Raiders. He had part in five of the seven tallies for the Truckers; he passed for three touchdowns and two extra points while he ran for two more scores. Danny James, Jim Hawks, and Jim Wayland were on the receiving end of Currie's passes, while Robert Lawson and David Tynch accounted for Churchland's final score with runs of one and six yards.

Churchland 47 - Kecoughtan 24

The powerful Truckers scored 47 points for the second time in two games in defeating Kecoughtan. The big gun for Churchland on this Friday night was Danny James. He scored five of Churchland's seven touchdowns, three on passes from Kenny Currie, one on a fumble recovery, and one from the line of scrimmage on a 16 yard run. Jimmy Wayland also caught a pass from Currie for a Churchland score, and Currie himself tallied on a 12 yard run. This was the highest-scoring game in the conference.

Churchland 0 - Oscar Smith 20

The Truckers challenged the district's number one team and came out on the short end of the scoring. Churchland was unable to get their usually powerful offense in gear and were thrown back for numerous losses. After a fumble on the first play of the game, the Truckers kept their "backs to the wall" for the remainder of the game. George Constantinides and Kenny Currie picked up 35 yards rushing, while Currie, the state's leading passer, threw for 97 yards, but none were for scores.

Churchland 15 - Cradock 12

Finishing the season in fine style, Churchland's eleven edged Cradock in a thrilling victory. Friday the 13th proved to be of no bad luck to the Truckers as they dominated most of the game. Churchland's tallies came on two one yard plunges by Kenny Currie. However, the Truckers' defense accounted for the winning margin by scoring a safety on a Cradock punting situation. Reggie Kirkman, Ashley Butler, and Jimmy Wayland were standouts on defense in the Truckers' season finale.

BOB MILLER (21), GRANBY'S defensive back, moves up in an attempt to tackle one of the district's premier backs, Kenny Currie (16). Harvey Randall (62) pulls from his guard position to lead the blocking.

NOTED FOR HIS GAME-saving tackles and all-around defensive play, Ken Currie (16) with ends Gene Brown (80) and Jimmy Wayland (81), moves in to stop Oscar Smith's Herman Perry (12).

END JIMMY WAYLAND (81) makes a fine catch despite the pressure applied by Deep Creek's George Johnson (12) and Ray Kohn (41).

CHURCHLAND'S POWERFUL FULLBACK George Constantinides (33) follows the blocking of John Woodard (65) and Dickie Arculin (57) in the homecoming game with Granby.

IN THE FIRST GAME OF the season, Gene Brown (80) picks up a Maury fumble and goes 40 yards for a score. Jimmy Wayland (81) throws a block on Maury's Bob Jaroncyks (3).

EARLY IN THE FIRST quarter, Dwight Smith (25) sweeps around left end behind the blocking of Kenny Currie (16) and thus gains good yardage before Deep Creek defenders stop him.

Junior Varsity Displays Spirit Despite 1 - 4 Season

Churchland's junior varsity ended this season with a 1-4 won-lost record. Preston Burton, completing his second year as junior varsity coach, and newcomer Ernest (Rabbit) Howard, found that a lack of size and of reserves cost them several games. Often ahead, or tied at the half, Churchland was unable in many cases to hold these bigger teams from larger schools in the district.

It is hard for a team to show desire in defeat, but this team did. They fought right up to the final gun in every game. They also displayed other traits which were characteristic of the type of team they had. They showed hustle, team play, and fine spirit throughout the year.

Linemen Tom Loizzi and Ken Yerby played exceptionally well all year, as did running backs George O' Brien, Penn Rogers, and Marvin Taylor. These players were brought up to the varsity for the last several games. It should be noted that six of these boys' classmates played on the varsity football squad. This indicates that Churchland's hopes aren't dim with these freshmen and sophomores extending the Truckers' football tradition.

Cheerleaders Surprise Football Squad With Party

Throughout the 1964-1965 season, the varsity cheerleaders worked tirelessly to instill a greater meaning to school spirit in both the athletics and the student body at large of CHS. They did not begin practice at the start of the school year as did other squads but began in June for the long year ahead. A frequent passer-by of the parking lot beside the gymnasium during the summer months would have been amazed at the line of suntanned girls practicing new cheers and striving for perfection. Also, many of the pep posters for the halls were made in the summer so that the cheerleaders would be able to use their time during school months for study. Toward the end of August, the CHS cheerleaders attended a meeting of all varsity cherleaders in Tidewater. The purpose of this meeting was for the various squads to exchange ideas on new cheers.

With the opening of school in September, the cheerleaders' first task was to teach cheers to all the candidates for JV Cheerleaders. On the days of the major football games, pep rallies were held during sixth period in the stadium. For all other football and basketball games, rallies were held before school in the auditorium. Giving a surprise party for the football players and serving at their banquet was one of their special events of the year. Also novel this year was the sound of cheering voices at home wrestling matches, supplied by the cheerleaders. This added much to the overall excitement and enjoyment of the matches and let the wrestlers know that the school was behind them.

By glancing at any of the cheerleaders' faces in the closing seconds of a close game, one could see and feel the real dedication and actual sincerity that came from her many months of practice.

HEAD CHEERleader Jody Swanson and Cathy Wittig, with the band's support, give a cheer for the student body during a sixth period pep rally.

AS A SURPRISE for the students at the Cradock pep rally, this group of "feminine charmers" assumed the role of "cheerleaders" and as such injected the feeling of joviality into the crowd. Lending their cheering talents to the rally are "lovelies" Momo Whitlow, Paul English, Nicky Psimas, Johnny Ellis, Ward Robinette, Bobby Glisson, and Lindy Rowland.

JV's Turn Cartwheels To Increase School Spirit

With their election in September, the junior varsity cheerleaders set out to prove that they were one of the best squads ever chosen to represent CHS. Their time for practicing was limited during the football season because the JV's football schedule was limited. However, in the winter months they were loyal fans and installed spirit into the student body. With the addition of a new sponsor, Mrs. Joan Hall, the cheerleaders learned many new cheers for the basketball season. Aching muscles and sore backs were frequent because of the new style of cheers, one even involving cartwheels, a real "crowd-pleaser".

Their other activities included the pep rallies in the fall and the making of pep signs for the halls and gymnasium. Name tags with striking and colorful phrases were made by the cheerleaders for all JV athletes on the day of their contest. Collecting money for the annual Quiet Day and selling programs for all of the home football games were part of their duties in the fall. Also new this year was the cheerleaders' riding the players' bus to most of the away games.

The enthusiasm thus generated by the squad did much to inspire spirit in the teams and went a long way in adding color and charm to athletic events.

KAY KEITH, ALEXIS TEW, BETTY ANN PARKER, AND Shelby Miltier lead the cheer "The Line-up" for the crowd during halftime.

CHS Thinclads Place Third In Eastern District

Churchland's Cross Country Team combined the exceptional abilities of junior runner Wayne Hitchings and a well-balanced squad to become an Eastern District Power in the long-distance sport. As an individual, Hitchings took first place in all the major cross-country meets including victories in the Williamsburg and Tidewater Invitationals and the Eastern District and State meets.

This was the second year in a row in which Hitchings earned the honor of state individual champion. Also for the second year in a row he went through the season undefeated.

The team as a whole compiled a 4-1 regular season record and took third place in the Eastern District Meet and eleventh place in the state meet. The trophy which the team won for third place in the Eastern District was the first trophy ever won by a Churchland Cross Country Team.

Cross Country has grown since it first became a team sport three years ago. In early fall, Mr. Burgess began his second year as coach with a sixteen man squad. The team began practice as soon as school started and ran as much as ten miles a day over various Churchland roads.

Hudson Paces District Foul Shooters With 87.9 Average

Playing in a district filled with powerful teams, Churchland finished the regular season with a 9-9 record. Considering the fact that the Truckers had only one letterman returning, this was a surprising, if not incredible, fact. A great deal of the credit for this season goes to the Truckers' new head coach, Mr. Ernest Howard, who was voted the best coach in the district by area sports writers. The leading scorer for Churchland was Hank Harris, who had a 14.5 average. The Truckers also had the leading foul-shooter in the Eastern District in co-captain Billy Hudson with an 87.9 average.

Although plagued by costly injuries and by the absense of experienced starters, the Truckers proved to be an exciting team in action. They made an exceptional showing in their one tournament game with Hampton and were edged out by only three points. With a few more breaks several other Churchland losses could have easily been turned into victories.

With eight returning players, several of who received valuable experience during the end of the season when injuries hampered starters and a tall, agressive JV team, there is a promising future on the hard court at Churchland.

WHILE THEY REST FOR THEIR ALLOTTED time and listen intently, Coach Howard explains game strategy to his first string players during a time out in the Great Bridge game.

JUMPING HIGH IN ORDER to get a draw shot, Bobby Glisson prepares to add two points to the Truckers' score in the Cox game.

MOMO WHITLOW DRIVES THROUGH THREE Cradock players, Ralph Geabhart (24), Doug Gilmore (22) and Dennis Novack (41), to make a lay up. John McCammon waits for a possible rebound.

JV's Finish Season Unbeaten On Home Court

Under the direction of their new coach, Mr. Bobby Walton, the JV team proved to be one of the best in the area. This team had an average height for the starters taller than that of the varsity team. They used this height to their best advantage and overpowered many of their opponents, an exactly opposite situation occuring for the varsity. These Trucker JV's showed a great deal of poise and skill throughout the season. Steady ball-handling and consistent players held the team together and it refused to become rattled in tense moments under pressure. They possessed a potent offense with several players performing extremely well. The highlight of distinction of the year was the fact that the JV's completed the season with a perfect record on their home court. This proved that the many loyal supporters of the JV's had a real hand in their home victories, as is seen by the many wins.

Great team effort and a desire to win, along with a feeling of pride in themselves, was instilled by the new coach. With several boys moving up to the varsity ranks next year and other freshmen filling the positions left by them, the outlooks for successful seasons are ahead.

DURING THE LAST TIME-OUT OF THE GAME, THE JV's listen to the final instructions of Coach Walton before going back out on the floor for the last minutes of the quarter.

Spruill Leads Truckeretts To 9 Win Season

In posting a 9-7 won-loss record, the Truckerettes finished the year with an interesting past and a promising future. Although this season did not equal several past records, everyone was well-pleased since only two players, Paulette Spruill and Linnea Woodling, had extensive experience from previous years. With an offense centered mainly around Captain Paulette Spruill, who has been a starting player since her freshman year, the Truckerettes impressed many opponents with their steady offense. She averaged nineteen points a game and along with Sandy Bailey averaging six points a game led the Churchland scoring: Linnea Woodling and Betty Waldo were the defensive leaders of the Churchland team which held several opponents to low scores, thus making the game more interesting for the enthusiastic supporters. Their teamwork and desire accounted for several victories over opposing teams. This girls' team had one of the most strenuous schedules of the teams at Churchland, playing four games in five days in the latter part of the season.

Two promising freshmen, Judy Horner and Joan McRae, and several other regular players give the Truckerettes a nucleus for a fine team in the coming years.

DURING THE GAME WITH ST. VINCENT'S, Miss Van Dyck emphasizes an assignment to one of her team members as they pause by the sidelines for a needed time-out.

Wrestlers Tie For First Place In "B" Division

PRIOR TO THE EASTERN DISTRICT Wrestling Tournament, Mr. Burton gives team members their individual seedings and overall information concerning general tournament procedure.

The Churchland wrestlers this year completed the season with a 6-7 overall record. In posting this record they tied for first place in the "B" division of the Eastern District. They were tied for this top spot with three other schools — Kellam of Virginia Beach and Deep Creek and Oscar Smith of Chesapeake. This in itself was an incredible but pleasing feat. Churchland suffered a setback when wrestling was discontinued two years ago. However, due to the fine rebuilding program which Coach Burton has engineered, wrestling has become one of the more popular sports at CHS. Greater participation from all of the classes has made it a sport not to be taken lightly.

Competing in a highly competitive district among the state and regional champions, Churchland proved to be an able opponent to many larger schools of long-standing success. As was seen from the stands by their many avid fans, only the experience, in most cases, was the difference in a match being won or lost by Churchland. At the end of the season, Grady Russ in the 145 pound class with a 6-2 record and Ashley Butler in the heavyweight with a 6-3 record were chosen the outstanding wrestlers. Next year promises a year of outstanding wrestling again.

Indoor Track Team Extends Win Streak To 9

The Churchland High School Indoor Track Team finished its regular season with a five win and no loss record. These victories coupled with more earned in last year's undefeated season make a string of nine straight dual meet wins. Indoor track became a team sport only last year.

Practice started in early December and included warm-up exercises, running in the halls, and running up and down the stairs. Runners also took up agility drills to help co-ordination. Boys involved in the field events lifted weights and worked on isometric exercises.

Track meets were held at Frederick College. Facilities included a 176 yard curved track, an 80 yard straightaway, pole vault and high jump pits, and a shot put ring. For the first time a two mile run was added to the list of events. Don Blankenship and Roger Lesoine established Frederick Field House Records in the high jump and shot put.

Mr. Burgess was again head coach and supervised the conditioning of those boys involved in running events. Mr. Brandriff also served his second year as assistant coach and instructed the field event boys.

'65 Baseball Team "Sports" 12 CHS Lettermen

Returning to his high school alma mater, this time to take over the coaching duties, Mr. Walton received an experienced team boasting twelve lettermen. Mr. Walton, an All-American pitcher for Old Dominion College himself, acquired a team that compiled a won-lost record of 9-6, enabling them to tie for fifth place in the district in 1964. These returning lettermen not only had experience from varsity baseball but from other teams as well. Co-captain Marvin Barnes, Ken Currie, Hank Harris, and Randy Williams played leading roles for the 1964 state champion American Legion team. Currie and Harris, along with Bill Murden were starters on the Norfolk County Colt League All-Star team that advanced as far as the semi-finals in national competition.

Prior to the season opener, the Truckers practiced diligently on conditioning and the basic fundamentals of the game. Hampered by cold, wet weather, they were forced to work inside even before winter sports were completed. Once outside, the team began to take shape and a promising future was in sight. Along with the team pride, personal pride, and winning attitude instilled by Coach Walton; hustle, determination, and skilled players assured Churchland of being a strong competitor for district honors.

DURING THE HAMPTON GAME, BILL MURDEN raps out a base hit down the third base line as the umpire and Charles Sands watch the action.

LARRY ATWOOD leads off of first base, having received his signs from first base coach Dickie Arculin, as Maury's Herman Baldwin holds him on.

AS RANDY WILLIAMS CROSSES HOME PLATE and Hank Harris rounds third, they become "RBI's" much to the dismay of York's catcher, Mike Jewell. Plate umpire Charles Johnston waits for a possible call.

Two Mile Run, Triple Jump Added To Track Events

Mr. Burgess began his fourth season as head track and field coach and Mr. Brandriff, his second as assistant coach with high hopes for both dual meets and big meet competition. For dual meets, opponents were met with a well-balanced team consisting of over fifty athletes. The Truckers had several good boys in every event.

In big meet competition, where three or more schools compete and quality counts more than quantity, several outstanding individuals carried the Churchland colors.

The addition of two events to the thirteen which previously made a track meet was no problem for a team with such depth and ability. The triple jump was added to the list of field events and the two-mile run to the track events.

Improved facilities complemented the performances of team members. New high jump and pole vault standards, fiber glass vaulting poles, and shots for the shot put were bought .The coaches were also able to buy several uniforms and wool sweat suits.

The 1965 track and field team began practice faced with the challenge of bettering last year's second place showing in the state championship meet and extending a twenty-four dual meet winning streak.

SHORTLY AFTER THE END OF SCHOOL Boyd Pace and Bill Spain make their daily trek to the stadium to get dressed for track practice.

TRYING TO GAIN HEIGHT AS WELL as distance, Marty Martin uses every gesticulation at his command during the broad jump finals. His efforts brought him a first place in this event and added points in the overall team scoring.

'64 State Champion J. P. Leigh Leads Golf Team

ON THE DIFFICULT EIGHTEENTH HOLE at Elizabeth Manor Country Club, J. P. Leigh, the Virginia State High School Champion, sinks an eight foot putt for a birdie.

The Churchland High School Golf Team practiced in late March aiming for the schools first group 1-A state championship team. Returning from last year's squad were J. P. Leigh, 1964 individual state golf champion, and David Seale, also on the first team.

Team members were afforded plenty of practice by getting out of school during sixth period study hall. Using the Elizabeth Manor Country Club Course, they were able to complete eighteen holes of golf everyday.

In 1964 Churchland's golf team finished second in the state meet held at Bow Creek. The team played Maury, Ferguson, and Kellam on March 30; Kecoughtan, Hampton, and Cox on Auril 6, Wilson, Cradock, and Suffolk on April 20; York, Princess Anne, and Virginia Beach on April 23; Granby, Warwick, and Kellam on April 27; and Norview, Warwick, and Cox on May 4.

Following individual practice in early March potential members competed to determine which ones would comprise the actual golf team. These golfers then competed among themselves in intra-team matches to determine who would be the top four playres. This year the positions are as follows: J. P. Leigh, number one; David Seale, number two; Lloyd Liebler, number three; and Richard Cormell, number four.

20 Prospects Mark Record Turnout For Tennis

With the beginning of a new season, the Churchland tennis team filled its ranks with twenty enthusiastic and talented boys, a number exceeding last year's turnout which was the largest in the history of Churchland High School. In addition to enlarged participation, the tennis team had a new coach, Mr. Lemasters, who brought new training techniques. With all of these "ingredients" for a team, they also had behind them from the previous season the best record of any other team; and thus optimism ran high with the players and coach during the entire seventeen-game season.

The Truckers were given an opportunity to test their ability and strength as a team in several practice matches before the regular season began. Leading contenders displayed their ability and determination while playing in the first matches. With intense spirit, intertst, and a will to win on the part of all the players, this year's team was put well on the way to a successful season and becoming a strong competitor in its matches. Schools with which the team competed included Cradock (two matches), Suffolk, Wilson (two matches), Kecoughtan, York, Hampton, Warwick, and Ferguson.

Features Reflect Distinction For Challenges Met

Features represent a popular part of school life at Churchland High for one good reason: they reveal the achievements of those students who have successfully met the challenges presented to them. Thus, they exemplify the final step of the challenge-achievement process that is present in all areas of endeavor.

In this section are saluted those students who have been awarded the honors and distinctions due them for these accomplishments in the past year. This recognition is usually representative of more than a single year's preparation: especially is this the case of those students who have maintained such high scholastic averages throughout their entire high school life that they are selected for the National Honor Society, the Churchland High Marshals, the Scholastic Teams, and the Honor Graduates.

Some students have spent years in preparation for musical accomplishments, so that now they receive recognition in the All-State Band or Chorus. Other students have developed their athletic ability to such an extent that they have become the recipients of annual athletic awards.

Among the others who are recognized here are the members of the Homecoming Court, the cast of the Senior Class Play, the participants of the Miss Churchland Contest, the Senior Superlatives, and students who have individually brought honor to Churchland High.

In short the Features section is the embodiment of student achievement and awards.

Hurricane Isbel Stretches Homecoming Festivities Into Separate Nights For Dance And Game

Hurricane Isbel threatened the Tidewater area Friday, October 19, causing the homecoming parade to be cancelled and the football game to be postponed until the following Monday. Despite fears of a weather-ruined homecoming, fair weather prevailed for the pre-arranged activities.

Queen Judy Kramer and Maid-of-Honor Sue Peake were presented at the annual dance that was held as scheduled in the school cafeteria. The graduates of 1940 and 1955 were honored at the alumni banquet, the dance, and the football game as planned.

The Truckers proved victorious over Granby's Comets in the homecoming football game by a score of 31-12. School clubs and organizations entered their original floats in competition in the parade before the football game. Executing the theme of "Cartoon Characters," the entries circled the stadium at CHS. The float made by the F.H.A. Club won first place with the entries of the F.B.L.A. Club second, and CEM Tri-Hi-Y third.

Sponsored by the S.C.A., Homecoming 1964 was headed by Barbara Johnson and Jody Swanson with Mr. David Mitchell as faculty advisor. Beginning early in the summer, the committee worked to organize a reunion program for the old grads. A new service was provided for the classes with this year's publication of an alumni bulletin and directory. Bunny Baugher served as chairman of the dance committee.

WAITING FOR MEMBERS OF THE homecoming court before the dance are escorts Ward Robinett, Lindy Rowland, Nicky Psimas, Wayne Hitchings, Mike Oliver, Conrad Strickland, Marvin Barnes, Johnny Ellis, Momo Whitlow, Bobby Psimas, and Bobby Glisson.

THE FLOAT COMPETITION WINNER RIDES before the fans at the homecoming football game. Entered by the F.H.A., the float represents not only the cartoon character "Yogi Bear," but also many hours of hard work and fun.

Seniors Stage Annual Play In Medieval Court

IN THE TENSE HOURS BEFORE OPENING night, Mr. Gwin, the director, and Pam Kochol, his assistant, pause from reviewing the skit for last minute details.

Taking on the challenge of changing the CHS stage into a world of long ago, the stage crew and cast of the Senior Class deeply involved themselves in the production of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." The cast presented the drama on February 4 and 6 after a two months' delay due to Mr. Gwin's being in the hospital. The cast, headed by Lindy Rowland as "Yankee" Hank Bennett, dramatized Hank's dream as he found himself in the Court of King Arthur. By a series of ingenious manipulations and a plot to overthrow the kingdom of King Arthur, the merry England of yesteryear into a metropolis suddenly become modern.

Playing to large audiences on both nights of the performance, not only did the cast gain experience in the art of acting, but also they provided entertainment that was marked by an escape from reality. With sets made by a crew headed by Scott Critzer and Kenny Lebow, the players presented a play that Mr. Gwin described as "wonderful."

As the main fund-raising project of the seniors, the play showed the results of co-operative work among the members of the Class of '65.

MERLIN THE MAGICIAN, IN HIS USUAL role of court wizard and general advisor to the King and his subjects, warns Queen Guenever and King Arthur to beware of an untimely visit from a stranger in their land. Merlin strongly suggests that any prisoner who is not likely to bring in a sizeable ransom must be burned at the stake without delay.

SOMEWHAT UPSET AT THE CONSTANT irritations brought upon him, Hank jumps to his feet to toss a few well-chosen remarks at his sister Marion for tampering with his radio. As their mother passively stands by in seeming disgust, these two "children" give their all in portraying this typical brother-sister relationship in the prologue of the play.

Churchland Royalty Chosen In February Pageant

JACKIE TAYLOR AND DELORES ELLIOTT begin their reign as Mr. and Miss Churchland as Delores receives her crown from former title-holder, Jody Swanson. The royalty is attended by their runners-up, Lindy Rowland and Barbara Johnson.

AMONG THE DISTINGUISHED JUDGES for the Miss Churchland contest this year was Carol Lindsay, Miss Norfolk. After the announcement of the decision, she adjusts Delores' crown.

In the traditional "hearts and flowers" setting of the Valentine season, Churchland Tri-Hi-Y presented their annual Miss Churchland Contest. Preceding the pageant were weeks of preparation and hard work by contest chairman Julia Spencer and her committee members. Through class elections contestants were chosen; it was by this means of popular vote that Mr. Churchland was selected and the candidates for Miss Churchland were chosen.

A panel of judges watched the 24 contestants parade the stage at CHS on February 18. Amid an air of excitement and tension, the girls appeared before their audience first in sports clothes and then in evening wear. Five finalists were selected and each was given two questions to answer, one of a serious nature and one in a lighter vein. Having been judged for the best answers to these questions and based on her overall appearance and poise, Delores Elliot was named Miss Churchland to reign along with Jackie Taylor, Mr. Churchland. Lindy Rowland and Barbara Johnson were chosen as runners-up in the contest.

IN THE LAST ANXious minutes before choosing Miss Churchland, the finalists are quizzed in two categories. As Cathy Wittig concentrates carefully on the question posed by the moderator, Mr. John Landers, Barbara Waggoner and Sue Peake await their turn to answer the questions brought in by little Holly Jereme.

STILL A LITTLE DAZED WITH THE THRILL of being chosen the one girl to be Miss Churchland from twenty-four original contestants, Delores Elliot beams her thanks to her friends for their warm congratulations. Giving outward expression to an inner feeling of joy and happiness, Susan Mero greets the new queen with a big hug and "congrats."

Coat Check Advances NHS To Scholarship Goal

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY MEMBER Betty Ann Warwick tutors a student in English grammar at an after-school session.

The CHS chapter of the National Honor Society consists of 22 students selected from the senior class. Its members are devoted to reflecting throughout the school four qualities which their club represents – scholarship, leadership, service, and character.

The Honor Society, a service organization, provided several special projects for the benefit of the school. By maintaining a bulletin board throughout the year, the group constantly kept its high ideals displayed before the student body. It also offered a tutoring service for students who requested extra help in academic subjects.

This year's main objective was the raising of funds for a scholarship to be given to a member of the Society. In order to attain this goal, the NHS sponsored a coat check at all home basketball games and other activities for which the school was host.

The highlight of the year came when these '65 grads tapped new members from the junior class into the Society at their annual assembly in April.

Class Pride Hastens Fulfillment Of Common Goals

One of the basic units of school structure which is necessary for the proper functioning of a modern educational system is the class. Not only do classes provide a means for students to receive an education in academic affairs, but they also offer experience in making friends and dealing with people. Since the bonds of friendship are increased by the sharing of daily experiences, many of the friends made now will last for life.

The students at CHS are presented with many challenges in their classes. It is through them that they plan annual proms and meet in assemblies, and it is also through their combined cooperation that they are represented in the SCA. In striving for the fulfillment of common goals many students have found that working together in groups enables them to accomplish more and to do so more pleasantly.

One of the dominating characteristics of a student's life is class pride and loyalty. This is evident by the display of "artistic talent" in the school parking lot as well as by the isolated outbursts of cheering in the auditorium, cafeteria, stadium, or other places where students may gather. The spirit of inter-class competition is demonstrated by members of the different classes as they try to outcheer each other on these occasions. It is this spirit that helps to keep classmates united long after graduation, and it makes them look forward to returning to CHS when they are honored at future homecomings and class reunions.

MISS BERRY, SPONSOR, GIVES President Jimmy Hawks a last minute reminder of subjects to discuss at the Senior class meeting.

'65 Distinguishes Itself As Tuffest Class Alive

A feeling of prestige and accomplishment began when the members of the Class of '65 received their rings on the first day of school. This spirit gradually increased throughout the year and soared to a high point when the class became the first one in four years to beat its arch-rival, Wilson.

The year was filled with work and activities. Some of the class members spent their time preparing A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court. Others remained at home with Ivanhoe and Macbeth to keep them company.

Following the mid-term exams, an end was in sight. Early spring was filled with questions of college acceptances. Meanwhile, term papers were still prerequisite for graduation. Long hours in the library kept the minds of Seniors well occupied. The end of the path was symbolized when the Class of '65 was honored at the Junior-Senior, and when term papers were finally completed. Final exams finished the last step toward graduation, and the Seniors left with these words running through their minds, "We're the tuffest class alive, we're the Class of '65."

AFTER ATTENDING AN OFFICERS' meeting, Mel Kunkle, vice-president of the Senior class, returns to the classroom.

THE CLASS PROPHETS, MOMO WHITLOW and Linda Roberts, exchange novel ideas with Historian Linnea Woodling.

SANDY BAILEY, TREASURER, watches the proceedings of the meeting and waits her turn to talk about calling cards and announcements.

THE PHOTOGRAPHER INTERRUPTS Barbara Johnson performing her secretarial duty of taking minutes at a meeting.

Class of '66, Led By Wayne Hitchings, Accepts Added Responsibilities Of School Life

Thrills of being upperclassmen filled the minds of juniors as they entered the doors of CHS in September. They also realized that many more responsibilities would be placed on them, for as upperclassmen they would be expected to participate more actively in all school affairs and to fill positions of leadership.

School life for juniors added more time-consuming subjects and more participation in extra-curricular activities. Honors such as the choosing of Marshals and new Honor Society members recognized the efforts and achievements of some. In sports, the boys were given the opportunity to represent their school more fully as they made the move up to the varsity teams.

Class officers, with Wayne Hitchings as president, were elected to lead the junior class.

Throughout the year several things showed juniors that they must begin making plans for their futures. In October, PSAT tests were taken. Also in the fall, Juniors had the opportunity to attend College Night. National Merit Scholarship Tests and College Boards challenged the minds of Juniors in the spring.

A feeling of "seniority" was added to the class as they placed their orders for class rings.

In the spring, the Suburban Country Club became the site of the Junior-Senior Prom. This, the largest project confronting the Juniors, required much hard work and many long hours.

Exams in June brought the end of a very exciting year. Juniors looked forward to September when they would return for their final year at CHS.

Increased Responsibilities In School Activities Highlight Sophomore Year

After a year of learning and introduction, wiser and more experienced Sophomores returned to school, ready to meet the challenging demands of their second year. They were equipped, as well as eager, to take a fuller and more responsible part in the many activities of their school.

With the beginning of school on September 3, John McCammon and Alexis Tew were re-elected as class officers, while newly-chosen Dwight Smith and Janet Thornhill added their ideas for leadership of the Class of '67. Together with the committee chairmen, they made up a staff which provided sound guidance.

Even though studies became more difficult and a bit more time-consuming, Sophomores marked their presence at CHS by furthering their participation in the clubs, sports, and other school organizations, such as the debate team. In these increased activities, they accepted a more encompassing role which involved added duties and responsibilities.

With cheerleaders standing behind them, Sophomores boosted school spirit at pep rallies and at football games. They continued to enlarge upon their friendships and to add their personalities, as well as liveliness, to the daily routine at CHS. All these phases of school support helped to produce a more closely-knit and enthusiastic class. Spring brought with her the joys and excitements of the Freshman-Sophomore Prom, the event to which the dues of the Class of '67 went. Sophomores worked hard to make this event a time that was a memorable success.

Freshmen Spared "Inconveniences" Of Initation During First Days At CHS

Early in September two-hundred and sixty-one Freshmen began a new way of life when they entered the halls of CHS for the first time. Each was as eager as the other to become a part of the Trucker life and tradition and to add his personality to the school.

The Class of '68 started the year by choosing as officers for the year Steve, Marion, Shelby and Betty Jo. During the first weeks at CHS the Freshman Class performed various services for the upperclassmen, but they were later spared these inconveniences.

Throughout the year they attended the football and basketball games, joined various clubs, and participated in the activities open to them.

Each Freshman roamed the halls with excitement and a strong desire to be a "real Trucker". Meeting new people, studying new courses, and becoming a part of the CHS way of life took up the freshman's time.

No one will ever forget the first football game, the first pep rally, or the first time he felt that he was really a part of the Trucker tradition.

Each event was exciting, but the real excitement was felt by those planning and attending the long-awaited Freshman-Sophomore Prom. This was the biggest project of the year for the Class of '68.

After the prom, the Freshmen busily studied for final examinations, thus ending their first year of high school. The club activities, football, and basketball games, and the long hours of study were over for one year. But few will forget their first year at CHS, for it is an important part of Trucker life.

Business World Offers Challenges In Competition

An important step in a student's development into maturity involves his experience in business relations. In order to gain this experience he must face a multitude of challenges of which one of the most important is finding fair and honest businessmen with whom to deal. The student's ability to do this is developed to a large degree by his relations with the patrons of the 1965 Trucker, whose interest in increasing the education of CHS students outside the classroom has already been shown by their support of this book.

The challenge of obtaining an education in the world of business is as modern as it is traditional. The student of today is confronted with basically the same problems that faced the student of a hundred years ago, despite minor changes in outward appearance. Also, the businessman is still faced with the challenge and the responsibility of setting a proper example; it is mainly through his guidance and influence that each student discovers for himself what an active force commerce will be in his life. The businessman should reveal how important it is to take pride in the excellence of his service, because, if he has been successful, he must have discovered that giving quality service and creating a friendly atmosphere is an absolute necessity for maintaining the support and patronage of his customers. All the businesses and business personnel represented in this section have found that the importance of one's attitude is a basic factor of success.
